

Over 3000 People Welcome Democratic Candidate For President at Middlesex Street Depot

GOV. COX MAKES GOOD IMPRESSION

Crowd Cheers as He Outlines His Position on the Irish Question

Says Harding is Trying to Wiggle and Wobble Himself Into White House

The Irish question is a world tragedy that concerns every people in the world; the conscience of the whole world is aroused and it will not permit the present war of extermination to go on," said James M. Cox, democratic candidate for the presidency from the rear platform of his special train at the Middlesex street station last night. A cheer from an audience of over 3000 people greeted his remarks. The candidate reached Lowell about 6:25 p. m. and spoke for five minutes. He was introduced by Jackson Palmer, democratic candidate for congress in the fifth district who talked for three cheers for "our next president" as the governor appeared on the rear platform of his special. There was but one interruption by a heckler during the speech, and the heckler received scant sympathy from the crowd.

Mr. Cox began his address by saying that he was very happy to have the privilege of stopping in Lowell, and that he regretted that his train schedule was such that he would remain but a brief time.

"I am coming to the Atlantic coast after going to the Pacific coast," said the speaker, "and as I have journeyed over the country I have noticed a great change in the treatment of public opinion on the great issues of this campaign. One candidate for the presidency is trying to wiggle and wobble his way into the job, and the other is Ireland is free. Ireland will thank God for Article X of the League of Nations which will protect the liberty and territory of the small nations of the world."

At the close of the governor's speech he was given a rousing cheer as he stepped within the front of his car. His train left for Boston via Salem and Lynn about 6:40.

Mr. Cox's speech in Lowell was the

From Manchester the governor went to Concord, where an audience of 7000 people was waiting for his arrival. He was introduced by Judge James W. Remick, for years a republican, who declared that he would vote for Cox because he knows where he stands on the one great issue of the campaign. The governor received such an en-

Pays to Speak Truth

"My observation has been that in a campaign, it pays to speak the truth in plain words. Senator Harding, against whom I am running, gets into trouble every day on account of his own inconsistent statements. He claims that he has been misunderstood by people who want the right of self-determination for small states made sure. He says that he has been misunderstood on the Irish question and that it is a domestic question for England to settle."

Here the speaker declared that Ireland's condition is a world tragedy that appeals to the public conscience and that the people of the world will not permit the war of extermination to continue."

Continuing Mr. Cox said: "The cause of Ireland is the cause of all large and small nations. The rights of Ireland will be protected by a compact of the nations of the world to prevent war and establish enduring peace. Such a compact will make sure the right of small nations to self-determination. The nations must come together to stop all war. When eight that he had delivered during the day. His voice was husky and toward the close of his short talk it was evident that he spoke with some difficulty.

The governor began his strenuous day yesterday by speaking in Springfield and Worcester.

From Worcester the special train was routed to Nashua. Here a short parade was formed and headed by a brass band, the candidate was escorted to Railroad square, where an audience of 2000 people were waiting. Included in the party was Marcus A. Coolidge, of Fitchburg, democratic candidate for lieutenant governor of Massachusetts.

The governor spoke for half an hour in Nashua and then went to Manchester in an automobile.

In Manchester an audience of five thousand people was assembled on Merrimack common. Here the speaker referred to the "base conspiracy to defeat the League of Nations formed by Henry Cabot Lodge, the basest conspirator in history." The mention of Lodge's name was greeted by hisses.

The speaker urged the defeat of Senator George H. Moses, of New Hampshire, who is a candidate for re-election. He said he would urge the defeat of Moses, or any other man, even if they were running on the democratic ticket, "who had been factors in the base political conspiracy to stifle the conscience of the world."

Interrupted by Hecklers

Hecklers made themselves heard at Manchester. As the governor closed his address a voice shouted: "Why were not the small nations represented at the peace table?"

"What small nations?" asked Mr. Cox.

"Ireland," was the reply.

"Is Ireland a nation?" asked the candidate.

"Ireland was a nation when England was a pup," was the answer and the

WAS FOND OF COOKE GIRLS

Testimony That Miss McShea Hugged and Kissed Her Nieces in Hospital

Claimed That She Said They Had Always Been Good to Her

It was testified that Catherine McShea had shown that she was fond of her nieces, the Cooke girls, that she hugged and kissed them while she was in St. John's hospital, and that she had said they should never want so long as she had money. In the trial of the case in equity in the superior court today to have a transfer of bank books belonging to Miss McShea to her nieces set aside on the ground that undue influence was used in securing the transfer and that the deceased was not of sound mind at the time the transfer was made. The suit was brought by Richard Brabrook Walsh, administrator. F. N. Harvey is counsel for the complainant; F. H. Pearson and Michael L. Sullivan of Salem for the defendants, Misses Florence G. and Susie Cooke.

Miss Susie Cooke was the first witness of the morning. She said that she saw her aunt Tuesday, April 15, after she was injured. Her aunt told her to go to Margaret Cady and get the keys to her trunk on the ground that undue influence was used in securing the transfer and that the deceased was not of sound mind at the time the transfer was made. The suit was brought by Richard Brabrook Walsh, administrator. F. N. Harvey is counsel for the complainant; F. H. Pearson and Michael L. Sullivan of Salem for the defendants, Misses Florence G. and Susie Cooke.

Witness said that Mrs. Alice P. Morrison, niece of the deceased, who was in the hospital when her aunt told her to get the keys to the trunk. She stated that her aunt said, "I want Florence to have $1000."

Witness asserted that Mrs. Morrison jumped from the chair on which she was seated and exclaimed, "Don't forget I am here, Aunt Kate; don't forget me." She said her aunt hugged her and kissed her when she gave instructions that the bank books should be obtained from the trunk.

Witness testified regarding obtaining the bank book and said she had found them where her aunt had said they would be found.

Told to Keep Books

Her aunt told her, witness asserted, to keep the books until she was told what to do with them. She said that Mrs. Morrison was in the hospital when her aunt hugged and kissed her, and told her to get the bank books, and that he promptly left the room.

Witness said that Alice Morrison came to her house later and that she was in a very nervous condition. Mrs. Morrison, it was testified, pounded the table and said, "You have got the trunk keys and the bank books."

Witness said she began to cry and that her sister Lilla made a remark which led Mrs. Morrison to shake her finger in Lilla's face and exclaim, "You keep out of it; you have nothing to do with this matter."

Witness said she then told Mrs. Morrison to leave the house and never enter it again.

The day her aunt's body was brought to her home, witness asserted, John McShea called at her house and asked if his aunt left any money to pay the expenses of her last sickness and burial. She said she told him deceased had left money enough to settle the bills. She said she told Mr. McShea that her aunt had told her to pay him $100 for some wood he had bought for her, and that McShea inquired, "Who told you that?"

Going to the Farm

Witness asserted that Mrs. Morrison had said: "If Aunt Kate lives long she will have to go to the farm. My father-in-law went there, and it is a good place."

Witness said she replied: "No matter how long Aunt Kate lives she shall never go to the farm. I shall send her to a hospital in Dracut where she will have good care."

The witness denied that she had attempted to influence her aunt to transfer her bank books, or that she had ever seen any evidence that her aunt was of unsound mind. She said she had heard her aunt say that she had had a sister Anna, who had been insane and confined in the Tewksbury hospital.

Gardner W. Pearson testified regarding the signing of the bank-book transfers by Miss McShea. He said she had asserted she wanted the Cooke girls to have her money; that they were "good girls and would take care

TO SETTLE BIG MINERS' STRIKE

Negotiations to End Tie-up of British Coal Industry Believed Assured

Reported Proposals Are in Preparation by Both Sides of Controversy

LONDON, Oct. 20.—Negotiations which might settle the strike of British miners were today believed to be assured. Government officials and labor leaders who outlined their positions before the opening session of parliament, have shown their desire to reach an understanding and belief was general today that proposals were in preparation by both sides of the controversy.

Premier Lloyd George has definitely declared he is ready to enter into negotiations, but he has laid emphasis on the fact that the government wants a final settlement of the differences which brought about a cessation of work in British mines last Saturday. He has stated plans for a tentative wage increase, pending a complete adjustment, would not be satisfactory as that method of meeting the present situation would threaten trouble later.

of her." He said he saw no evidence of mental unsoundness on the part of Miss McShea. He said that Florence Cooke urged her aunt to take the pen and sign the transfers.

Theresa McDermott told of caring for Miss McShea while she was in St. John's hospital. She said she saw deceased every half-hour during the day. She stated that she had never seen her unconscious, act peculiarly or show any evidence of mental unsoundness.

Told to Send Lawyer

Margaret McKenna of Fitchburg testified that she had been a patient occupying the next bed to Miss McShea in St. John's hospital. She said she became acquainted with deceased, and talked with her some every day. She became acquainted with John McShea the day after his aunt entered the hospital. She said Miss McShea said to John: "What did you come for, to see what you could get?"

John said, witness testified, "Now don't start talking that way or I won't stay."

"When John took his hat to go," witness stated, "Miss McShea said, 'You go or stay just as you please, but you send a lawyer here and let him fix it so you'll get nothing.'"

When Susie Cooke came to the hospital, witness asserted, her aunt kissed her and said, "Poor Susie, with your lame hip, it was real for you to come up here and see me."

Witness said she had heard Miss McShea say she "loved Florence" and that "Florence had always been good to her," and that she had heard deceased tell Susie Cooke to get the keys to her trunk and get her bank books.

Witness stated that Miss McShea had never shown any affection, while in the hospital, for Alice Morrison. She stated that Mrs. Morrison had tried to obtain information from her aunt regarding the disposition made of her bank books, and when her aunt did not give satisfactory answers Mrs. Morrison said to witness, "She won't tell; isn't she foxy?"

HAVE REPUBLICANS ON THE RUN, SAYS COX

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—Governor Cox in a telegram from Boston, made public at Democratic national headquarters today, said:

"We have the enemy on the run, and it now looks like a sweeping victory."

Senator Pat Harrison, chairman of the Democratic speakers' bureau, who returned from Boston today, said:

"New England apparently is as much on fire for the League of Nations and the democratic cause as other parts of the country. Governor Cox is right. We have the opposition on the run. The campaign of misrepresentation conducted by the republican leaders has failed."

KING OF GREECE SHOWS SLIGHT IMPROVEMENT

ATHENS, Oct. 20.—A slight improvement was noted in King Alexander's condition today. He passed a better night. Lung congestion remained stationary. The wound caused by the bite of a monkey, is improving, but an examination of liquid extracted from his lungs showed the presence of pneumonia germs.

His underclothing was stiff with blood and, besides last marks his body and neck bore the marks of ropes with which he said his tormentors had attempted to hang him.

McMahon, who is 55 years old, said he believed his assailants were adopting methods of the Ku Klux Klan. He said he was seized when he left the train at Trenton and was driven into the country in an automobile. When it stopped, he said, eight men wearing white hoods gathered around and beat him.

"Then they threw a rope around my neck," he said, "then tried to put the other end over a tree, but it would not reach. After a severe beating they told me they decided to let me go."

"They blindfolded me, putting a hood over my head exactly like the ones they wore, then led me to an automobile and we drove to a house where I was fed. They called a physician to examine my wounds."

"Then they drove me to Denmark, S. C. They gave me money to buy my ticket to New York, after making me promise I would not return. All the way from Denmark to Washington, someone came into the car occasionally and, after looking at me, retired into another coach. This man acted as guard to see that I did not leave the train."

McMahon said he was too weak to leave the train at Washington. He told the police he was friend and adviser of Miss Powell. Her father lives at Aiken, and is president of a bank. Recently, according to McMahon, the father made a division of his property among his children. Florence Powell's share was $50,000.

LOWELL HIGH

PLAYER INJURED

George O'Hare, first string quarterback of the Lowell High school football team, was seriously injured in practice at Spaulding park yesterday afternoon, and was operated on at St. John's hospital last evening.

He was reported resting comfortably today. O'Hare was engaged with other members of the team in tackle practice when the unfortunate accident occurred. He will be out of the game for the season, of course, and his loss will be a serious blow to the eleven, as he had been one of its mainstays. His injury is of an internal nature.

theatre, will be seen in their latest release, "The Jailbird." The Jailbird is the story of a crook who attempts to swindle the inhabitants of a small town by promoting an oil boom and disposing of a large amount of worthless stock. However, the well comes in, his efforts at crookiness are foiled, and he finds himself the town's wealthiest and most respected citizen. To make the story complete, through his love for the prettiest girl in the village, he is reformed in a novel manner.

The picture was directed by Lloyd Ingraham from a story by Julien Josephson. Doris May heads a capable supporting cast which includes such players as Lew Morrison, William Courtwright, Wilbur Higby, Otto Hoffman, Monty Collins and Bert Woodruff.

The other big feature for the weekend will be "Half a Chance," a Jesse D. Hampton production, telling a powerful story of modern life. In securing the cast for "Half a Chance," the Robert Thornby special, the first of a series to be made by Jesse D. Hampton for Pathé, extreme care had to be exercised in selecting the exact types in order to make a realistic picture of the life of the slums.

The leading part was entrusted to that sterling actor, Mahlon Hamilton, star of "Earthbound." The role required a player of finesse and powerful physique—a man who could portray both the derelict of the slums and the brilliant and cultured lawyer and member of society.

The International News, a comedy and Burton Holmes travel picture will round out the program.

OPERA HOUSE

"The Cave Girl," the latest back-to-nature comedy by Messrs. Middleton and Bolton, which is being presented this week by the Lowell players at the Opera House, is a winning, unmitigated favor with the patrons of the city and vicinity. The piece is a rather unusual one, and it's handled in a mighty entertaining fashion by the players. Miss Fields looks and acts amusingly as the primitive girl of the Malae woods, and squeezes some good humor out of her part, as well as touches of pathos and a little of romance that creeps into her life. The contrast between the girl as nature made her and the other one of the city, is interesting. You'll like the piece and the players.

THE STRAND

A great crook play with Eugene O'Brien in the stellar role, entitled "The Wonderful Chance" is one of the exciting things on the bill at the Strand and will be shown for the last time today. O'Brien's portrayal of the role of "Swagger" Barlow is certainly interesting.

Sir—In August, 1907, I was taken with a severe attack of sciatic rheumatism. My head and body were almost in a horizontal position, the pain was so great that my whole body was sometimes paralyzed; it seemed as though thousands of pins had been stuck in my body at once.

Var-ne-sis did a good thing for me, and everybody on my street, yes, in all the neighborhood, knows how I have been afflicted. NERVE WEAKNESS A CURSE TO THE NATION

"Mentally and Physically the Bodies of Nerve-Exhausted, Weak, Run-Down, Prematurely Old People Are Craving for Simple Organic Phosphate," Says Physician

There are ten million people in America today who are weak, nervous, lack energy and ambition and are too exhausted mentally and physically to keep up their end in the modern battle of life.

These people need, according to physicians who have made a close study of present day living, a little organic phosphate with their food for a few weeks. When this is absorbed in the system, it becomes quickly converted into healthy living tissue, full of renewed energy and vigorous nerve force.

Thousands of people are finding this out every day, especially in the large cities where druggists report a surprisingly large sale of bitro-phosphate, which is the one organic phosphate of the purest form best known to the public.

Phosphorus is vitally necessary to every living cell in the body, and especially the nerve cells. It aids in strengthening disordered nerves, invigorating the brain cells, and bringing that much admired keenness of mind.

Thin, restless people need Bitro-Phosphate most, for when nerve force is present, nerve cells are stronger and completely under control. This means more flesh where more flesh is needed. A. W. Dows and every druggist knows all about plain Bitro-Phosphate, for people are fast learning that simple remedies are best.—Ady.

CONDITIONS IN RUSSIA

Very Few Births With Big
Increase in Deaths—Metal
Plants Only Ones Running

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 20.—T. A. uhm, a German business man who has just arrived here after a five months' trip to Moscow, told the correspondent of the Associated Press
that the birthrate in the Russian
cities had decreased almost to a point

where no more children were born,
while the deathrate was constantly increasing. The metal industries are the only ones operating, he said. Speaking of the high prices for food and
clothing, he added:

"Women in the cities are wearing
non-descript dresses made of patched
cloth and scraps of lace, scarfs, etc. I cannot see how anyone can live
through another winter except the peasants."

"The fact that in Moscow there are many passports of all nations makes it possible to send Bolshevik propa-gandists all over the world."
Mr. Kuhn returned to Constantinople via Turkey and Baku. He said that the world is virtually impossible for Bolsheviks to penetrate India through

Turkistan because of the trackless
desert and unfriendly Mussulman
tribesmen. He said there are 100,000
German prisoners along the railway
from Orenburg to Tashkent, most of whom did not know who won the war.

"In Baku the British and American
prisoners were made to clean the streets and they were compelled to live in ghettos," said Mr. Kuhn.
"I came through Tiflis and was able to observe that the Georgians are subjected to a tyrannous rule imposed by a delegation from Moscow, against which they are protesting."

TEACH ENGLISH
IN SERBIA SCHOOLS

BELGRADE, Serbia, Oct. 20.—English is being introduced throughout the schools of Serbia. It is now made a compulsory subject in the normal
schools. The first courses in English, which were inaugurated in Belgrade a
year ago under an American teacher,
Dr. James Wild of Chicago, have yielded such excellent results that the government has decided to make the language a part of the curricula of all schools.

Heretofore the dominating language
of the Serbians, apart from their native
tongue, has been German. The Germans were quick to see the advantages of introducing their language as a means of acquainting the school children with the ways and customs of the German people. The pupils were given

little chance of acquiring the things
that go to make up the life and culture
of Anglo-Saxon civilization.

A very large proportion of Serbia's school teachers were killed in war, so having died during the Bulgarian occupation. Scores of school buildings were destroyed and most of the school
books printed in the Serbian language
were deliberately confiscated and burned by the Bulgarians. Even bibles and the index of pupils that the former
have to work from dawn until night,
taking their classes in "relays."

the Serbian language with publications
in their own tongue.

Notwithstanding these disasters, out
of 2100 schools in Serbia, nearly 2000
have reopened. So great is the thirst for education in Serbia that it is a common thing for children in the country districts to leave their homes before daybreak and walk for several hours to reach school, not returning home until late in the evening. The school buildings, owing to the ravages of war, often are without window panes, heating, desks, books and even writing material.

SAYS G. O. P. WILL
CARRY 30 STATES

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—At least 30
states will be carried by Harding and Coolidge in the November election,
Scott C. Bone, director of publicity of the republican national committee, predicted yesterday.

"There is a possibility that the number will reach 35," Mr. Bone said.
"This means that the republicans will carry all the north and break into the south."
Mr. Bone said he based his prediction upon advices from newspapers
and newspapermen all over the country.

BIRD'S ROOFS

Made in New England

Re-roof now, protect your home and property against damage this winter

When winter drops down on New England with its sleet, snow and low temperature, it is a test for any roof—and New England is dotted with Bird Roofs that have been weather- and water-proof for twenty years without a single repair.

There is a correct way to buy roofing. So don't guess what you need—but go to your nearest Bird dealer and explain the kind of building you are to put up or re-roof.

He will advise you as to the Bird Roofing best suited to your special needs.

If it is Bird's Paroid Roofing that your buildings require, you will find plenty of instances where it has protected dwellings, farms, garages, and factories from fifteen to twenty years without a penny for repairs.

Look at a real piece of roofing when you buy, not a small sample. Your Bird dealer will gladly unroll a good-sized stretch of Paroid for you to look at and feel, and test for thickness, firmness, pliability, and bright gray surfacing.

Paroid is an all-round quality roofing, especially adapted for low-pitch roofs but good also for steep roofs or siding.

Whether it is Bird's Paroid, Bird's Plain Slate-Surfaced Roll Roofings, Bird's Slate-Surfaced Designed Roofing (Art-Craft Tile Design or Shingle Design), or Bird's Shingles you need, the Bird dealer will show you the kind of roofing best suited to your requirements. This is the sure way to take the guess out of buying your roofing.

Bird's Roofs will not catch fire from falling sparks; they protect property from damage.

LODGE ATTACKS WILSON

Declares "His Acts Are Those of a Third Napoleon"

NEWARK, N. J., Oct. 20.—Senator Lodge addressing a mass meeting here last night attacked President Wilson as an autocrat, declaring "his acts are those of a third Napoleon."

"The constitution," he said, "creates a representative democracy and divides the government into three great branches. The intent and purposes of the makers of the constitution were that, not one of these branches should usurp or trespass on the powers of the other two."

"Mr. Wilson has throughout his administration steadily sought to usurp the functions of the legislative branch. He tried to make a government of one man. The country is conscious of this attempt, and intends to bring it to an end."

"There can be no more autocratic action by the president than his refusal to observe the law. When we talk of law and order we refer to the president as well as the average citizen. If the head of the nation does not obey the law, who can be expected to obey the law, who can be expected to obey the law?"

"Let me say when I refer to the views of Mr. Wilson I refer to those of Cox and I refer to those of Wilson."

to say it every time. Cox is heir to the Wilson pollsters.

CHALLENGES DEMOCRATS

Cravath Declares That Vote for Harding Is Not Vote Against the League in Speech in Boston

BOSTON, Oct. 20.—Paul D. Cravath of New York told an audience in Symphony hall last night that a republican victory this fall would mean "effective progress in bringing about the participation of the United States in an association of nations to promote peace and prevent war."

"The success of any great national effort," he continued, "will depend on the democratic party as the very essence of my political inheritance. I would not hesitate to vote against any party if I were convinced that the election of its candidates would be followed by a refusal of this country to co-operate with our allies in the great war in settling up effective international machinery to promote the league."

Advocating the election of Senator Harding and Governor Coolidge, Mr. Cravath challenged "the soundness of the democratic slogan that a vote for Harding is a vote against the league."

Six types of transmitting equipment in duplicate have been installed at Lyons.

INDIAN MISSIONARY VISITS PARENTS HERE

Rev. Sister St. Gervais, formerly Miss Anna Landry, a member of the order of the Sisters of Providence of Montreal, Que., who for the past 21 years has been doing missionary work among the Indians of British Columbia, is the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Landry, of 190 Cumberland road. The reverend sister arrived here last Friday and will remain in this city another week during which time she will be pleased to meet her former friends and acquaintances.

Rev. Sister St. Gervais is one of eight members of her order, who are in charge of a government boarding school at St. Eugene mission, a short distance from Cranbrook, B. C., which was erected and which is being maintained for the benefit of the Kootenay Indian children.

The Kootenay tribe of Indians in that district is divided into four reservations with a population of about 4000, the largest of which is at St. Eugene mission. The reservations cover a territory of about 50 square miles and each reservation has a little church of its own, 100 per cent of the tribe being Catholics. They are all under the supervision of a young Belgian priest, Rev. Fr. Lambert, O.M.I., who has been in that district about 12 years and who is now visiting his home country across the ocean.

The boarding school at St. Eugene mission, where Rev. Sister St. Gervais is located, was erected by the Canadian government some 21 years ago. It consists of a two-story cement block structure with all modern improvements including gymnasium for boys, recreation room for girls, shower baths, dining rooms, reading rooms and dormitories. The building is steam-heated and electrically lighted. Its floors are of tile. It is an ideal building in every way. The school stands on a fine tract of land. It is about six miles from the railroad station and is surrounded by hundreds of acres of good fertile soil, a greater portion of which is being cultivated by the male pupils of the school, while the little girls also do their share of the work.

The school maintains an attendance of about 100 children, about evenly divided, boys and girls. The children enter the school when five years old and they remain there until they have attained their 15th year. Classes are held the whole year with the exception of the month of September, when the children are allowed to spend four weeks with their parents. The building has two sections, one for the boys and the other for the girls. The forenoon is devoted to the teaching of languages, while in the afternoon the boys attend manual training classes, while the girls are taught sewing, cooking, etc. The manual training is being taught by a layman, who also has charge of the farm.

Speaking about the Kootenay Indians the visitor said they attend strictly to their affairs and very seldom do they leave their district. They are very religious and devoted to their children. They are having considerable trouble in raising their families, however, for many of the boys and girls die before they reach the age of 14. The heavy death rate is due to tuberculosis, despite the attention of noted specialists.

The Kootenays live mostly on dried meat and fish and pay little attention to sanitary conditions and the spread of tuberculosis in their camps is attributed to their negligence. "They are a thrifty people, quiet and law-abiding, very industrious and always ready to lend a helping hand, but they neglect their homes. In each of the reservations there is a small church, where about once every four months the priest celebrates mass. They have a government of their own which is composed of the chief of the tribe and members of his council, who are elected by the people and their word is law. Although their camps are a short distance from civilization, they are not molested in any way and are allowed to go along with their little business."

Four times a year on the feasts of Easter, Corpus Christi, All Saints and Christmas, the Kootenays of the four reservations assemble at the church of the St. Eugene mission where they attend mass and enter into jubilation which last some times three days. During the celebrations they toll the church bells and take their rifles and fire into the air, thus being signs of exultation. They despise intoxicating liquor, which they call the "Devil's spirit," and when one of their numbers is found under the influence of liquor he is immediately put into the lockup and kept there until he has completely recovered.

Referring back to the school Rev. Sister St. Gervais said the children are very industrious. They pick up the English language which is being taught them very quickly and they are also interested in sports and music. The boys have formed several baseball teams and occasionally some of the best players of the various teams are marked into one team and the aggregation crosses bats with teams of the neighboring district. The boys have also a fine brass band, its members being fully equipped with instruments and uniforms, while the girls have a string orchestra.

In the fall the boys go into the woods and cut enough fuel to keep the heating plant of the school going all winter. Through their efforts there is now on the grounds a lake, which supplies great sport. A small brook running through the land has been dammed and the body of that part of the prairie has been dredged, so that now fishing and canoeing as well as swimming are enjoyed in the summer and in the winter the boys and girls indulge in skating.

"Although it feels good to be back in Lowell again," said Sister St. Gervais, "I feel homesick for the little Indians I have left at St. Eugene, for they are so good and so affectionate." The reverend sister has been called to the bedside of her mother, whom she had not seen for the past 14 years and inasmuch as the mother is now on her way to recovery, she will make her trip shorter and expects to return to her Kootenay Indians some time in the latter part of next week. The sister is enjoying the best of health and says the climate in the British Columbia mission is excellent.

Fill Your Blood With Iron If You Want To Be Strong

WITH PLENTY OF ENERGY AND POWER

Says Physician—Explains How Organic Iron—Like Nuxated Iron—Often Increases the Strength of Weak, Nervous, Run-down People In Two Weeks' Time.

You cannot expect to live and in life with plenty of energy and power if your blood is thin and watery more than you need to be. It takes pure, red blood—rich in iron—to keep the human machine working fast. Without iron your every action lacks power, your red blood corpuscles die by millions, the strength goes from your body and you drop among the weaklings and failures.

But when such men and women supply the right kind of iron to their blood, a most surprising change often takes place," says Dr. John J. Van Name, formerly Medical Inspector and Chief Physician on the Board of Health of New York City. "The weak, colorless blood which has been moving sluggishly in the veins becomes rich and red and courses through the body, building healthy tissue, giving renewed force and increased strength. Without it, the rich, red blood with plenty of iron in it, there can be no physical perfection of force to carry on one's work. Yet to take the wrong kind of iron may prove worse than useless, for it is the wrong sort of food will often fail to give the proper nourishment. Organic iron—Nuxated Iron—by enriching the blood and creating new blood cells, strengthens the nerves, rebuilds the muscles and helps infuse the whole system with fresh vigor and endurance whether the person be young or old. I strongly advise every man or woman who is lagged out by

GOV. COX DENOUNCES LODGE AT BOSTON

BOSTON, Oct. 20.—In a bitter attack on Senator Henry Cabot Lodge as "the basest conspirator in all history," Gov. James M. Cox of Ohio, democratic candidate for president, delivered the most forceful and effective speech of his campaign in the presence of 25,000 wildly enthusiastic men and women on Boston common last night.

Heckled by opponents of the League of Nations, supporters of independence for Ireland, advocates of repeal of national prohibition, and interrupted at various times during his address, the candidate for president carried the fight right to his hecklers, answered their questions emphatically and frankly, and then, in turn, did his own little "heckling" by clever sallies which completely silenced his opponents and brought him, renewed and increased applause.

Not in years has a larger audience gathered on Boston common or elsewhere. Not in years has a candidate of any party for political office been accorded such a welcome in this city. Probably never before have men and women here listened as intently to and then displayed such enthusiasm for words of criticism of the senator from this commonwealth.

It was the worst exhortation of Senator Lodge that has been heard by a Massachusetts audience. Apparently realizing that the reported attitude of hostility in this state to the League of Nations is due almost entirely to support of Senator Lodge, Governor Cox lashed right and left at the man who leads the fight against the covenant of the League of Nations—the covenant that Candidate Cox declared at every meeting place in New England he is with "heart and soul."

It Does All We Claim or Costs You Nothing

shire and Massachusetts—right in the heart of "the enemy's country."

It was the final speech of 11 he had delivered since early yesterday morning, in every one of which he had made the league the issue overshadowing all others.

The attack on Senator Lodge and his demand for his retirement from public life was the second speech of its kind he had uttered during the day. Up in New Hampshire he had called for the retirement of Senator George H. Moses as one of the followers of Lodge, "the base conspirator."

The attack on Senator Lodge and the "whole heart and soul" defense of the League of Nations covenant was the theme of all the speeches of Governor Cox at his 11 stopping places in New England during the day.

In discussing Harding's attitude on the Irish question, Gov. Cox said: "On every possible occasion he has both spoken and voted against the principle of self-determination, not only for Ireland, but for every other small country."

"When the subject of Philippine independence was up, he voiced the sentiment that America has never been concerned about consent of the governed, and voted against the Philippine independence bill; he has voted against every proposal for freedom touching the status of any dependencies of imperialistic governments. He voted against every reservation tending to make more clear the right of self-determination under the league. He voted for an amendment to the Gerry reservation to strike out the words 'the principle of self-determination' thus committing the senate against that principle, and then voted against the reservation itself, squarely opposing the right of self-determination for the people of Ireland or any other country. And finally he expressed the sentiment that America had no concern about the difficulties of Great Britain and Ireland, which he described as a purely internal affair."

"When he extricated himself from the difficulty of his blunder with the French humorist, he may return to the Irish question, especially as the statement of his attitude of unconcern there was seized upon by British journals as quasi-official and was followed by reprisals against Irish citizens by the soldiers of Great Britain's constabulary."

Taking up the league, the governor said: "I ask you to reflect upon this: Has any critic of the league come forward with a substitute to take its place? If they can't give us something as good or better to take its place, then ought they not maintain a discreet silence? Now there you have the essentials of the league. You hear objections raised. How insincerely, how hypocritically they are spoken. The first one is that our sons will be sent overseas every time they have a back alley quarrel in Europe. How can you make a treaty that violates the Constitution of the United States? Ask any high school boy or girl in the city and they will tell you that under the constitution the right to declare war is with the congress. You cannot pass a treaty that overruns the constitutional provision. There is no more chance of our going to war in the league than out."

"Now I want you to know where I stand on the league. I am for it with all my heart and all my soul. I believe it is as clearly an inspired instrument as either the Magna Charta or the Declaration of Independence. I believe that national groups, peoples that do not enjoy their own liberties and freedom, now can attain them under the operations of the league."

"I have been very much interested to hear Senator Harding say that the Irish question was a domestic affair; that it is a matter concerning England and England only. It has developed, now, can attain them under the operations of the league."

enthusiastic reception given to me in New Hampshire and Massachusetts. As I have journeyed east and west and back again, I have found growing audiences, increased attention and enthusiasm beyond bound.

"At no place has the quality of reception exceeded that in Massachusetts. I find here, more than anywhere else, the people resent the partisan conspiracy planned to deceive them with relation to the League of Nations."

"It is apparent to me that the American people will now reject a policy of political camouflage. They are laughing at the spectacle of the candidate who is uncertain even in his own mind."

"I am happy to say that the people of Massachusetts seem to understand and to express their understanding in the receptions given to me."

HARDING SPEAKS AT JACKSON, O.

Contrasts Republican "Performances" With Democratic "Phrase-Making"

Lauds Protective Tariff Policy as Example of Republican Accomplishment

JACKSON, Ohio, Oct. 20.—Democratic "phrase-making" and republican "performance" were contrasted by Senator Harding in a speech here today lauding the protective tariff policy as an example of republican accomplishment. "The truth is," he said, "that with all the progressive tongues and all the literary idealism of our opponents, it is still the republican party, not only as to tariff protection, but as to every other kind of protection, which stands as the safeguard of America. It is a simple matter to make phrases; it is much more difficult to perform, but it is on their respective records as phrase-makers and as performers that the democratic forces of this campaign and the republican party oppose each other."

Speaking at a barbecue, the senator gave particular attention to the iron and steel industry as it has developed in this section of Ohio. "This industry throughout the country," he said, "has given a demonstration of 'the success which attends the combination of the hands and brains of workers whose interests are so bound together in a common cause that upon the part of all there was no profound realization of the need for mutual consideration.'"

"As an illustration of the common interest which binds those engaged in that industry in a public policy," he continued, "I wish to cite the truth that the growth and opportunity for investment of capital and the labor of men in the iron and steel industry has rested upon a political policy. You know that it is a fact that the republic-

Mine Explosion Kills 442 in China

PEKING, Oct. 19.—(By Associated Press)—An explosion and fire in the Tong-Shan coal mine in Chi Li province, killed 422 Chinese laborers on Thursday last, but news of the accident reached here only today, there were 110 survivors. The explosion occurred in next to the lowest level, smoke causing most of the deaths. There was fire damp in the mine and extra precautions had been taken to safeguard the miners against it. It is believed the explosion was caused by laborers tampering with the safety lamps.

ican policy of tariff protection given to our home industries, has been the safeguard and stimulus of our American iron and steel production.

"With all the natural resources and the good fortune of geographical position, the growth and perhaps the prosperous existence of the 600 or more companies which are making iron and steel in the United States is based upon the impulse given men to labor. This impulse to labor, I trust, will always be made up in part of the love of men to expend their energies in creative production; but of necessity men labor for a living. I would like to see the standards of living among foreign nations raised up to our standards of living, but I do not intend to see our prosperity and our standards of living to meet the competition of foreign countries in our markets."

"Sympathetic as I may be with our brothers in foreign nations, we stand for a proper policy of American protection, flexible, subject to readjustments, fair to our consumers, and yet protecting American investments and the interests and standards of living of those American laborers who do their part by giving us 100 per cent efficiency in their productive effort."

NEWS OF THE DAY IN POLICE COURT

Kato Janacka of Dracut, arraigned in police court this morning before Judge Wright, charged with larceny of a spool of yarn valued at $2.50 from the Massachusetts cotton mills, was found guilty and ordered to pay a fine of $5. The defendant is an employee of the spinning room of the mill and was detected by the gatekeeper in taking the spool. Major Noyes, special officer for various corporations in the city, was the prosecuting officer, and again urged the court to inflict strict penalties to stop the larcenies which are being committed every day in the various mills and shops in the city. This is the second case within one week in which employees of the Massachusetts mills were charged with larceny.

Daniel Vaccarella

Daniel Buzzell pleaded not guilty to neglect of his wife, but was put over until tomorrow for trial.

"Are you married to this woman?" the defendant was asked.

"I don't know. I have no proof that I did marry her," he replied.

"Can you remember?" queried Deputy Powney.

"All I know is that I just wanted her for a housekeeper and that if I did marry her 15 years ago, I did it when I was drunk," affirmed the defendant.

"Continued until tomorrow," said the court. "Go to city hall and see if you are married."

Automobile Cases

In the number of automobile cases called, Bernard Kelly was found guilty of driving a truck without a license and without providing it with proper lights. His case was placed on file on the grounds that the violation was committed through a misunderstanding.

Alexander Perreault, charged with operating an automobile so as to endanger the lives and safety of the public and without a license, was continued.

Daniel Apostolous, proprietor of a store in Middlesex street, was charged with a violation of the city ordinance by parking his automobile in front of his store without having lights upon it. He was found guilty and fined $10.

Robert B. Cohoon was fined $25 for operating an automobile on Westford street on the afternoon of Oct. 12, so as to endanger the lives and safety of the public. The arresting officer testified that defendant drove his auto on the left side of the street at the rate of 30 miles an hour, passed several others and an electric car which were stopped.

Philip Bellefleur was fined $10 for operating an automobile at night on Broadway without headlights.

Carried Revolver

Victor Beauchemin was found guilty of carrying a revolver without a permit to carry a gun and on Oct. 12, defendant appeared. Counsel for defense asked that the case be placed on file on the grounds that the gun was not loaded at the time, that the defendant did not attempt to conceal it, that he bought it a short time before being caught and that he has no former record.

Liquor Case

A charge of illegal sale of intoxicating liquor against Manuel Bettecourt, proprietor of a store in Gorham street, brought down the usual fine of $100.

Defendant pleaded not guilty, but Officers Clark and Winn testified that they searched Bettecourt's store and found seven plots of liquor and got an admission from the owner that he had sold two gallons the night before they served the warrant upon him.

Non-Support Cases

Other non-support cases included a charge of non-support of a minor child against William Archambeau, to which he pleaded not guilty. He was given a suspended sentence of four months in the house of correction with the provision that he pay $5 per week for the support of the child.

Francis C. Carragher of South Lowell appealed a sentence of five months to the house of correction ordered on a charge of non-support of wife and minor child. He was held in $300 for superior court.

The case of Charles Costas, charged with assault on an officer with a dangerous weapon and with illegal sale of intoxicating liquor, was again continued.

Afford Ireland was found guilty of drunkenness but was continued until Oct. 24 for disposition. His wife complained about abusive treatment.

The probation officer issued several releases to first offenders for drunkenness.

LOWELL HUNTERS GET BIG COON

After an exciting chase from Carlisle to Concord, a group of Lowell hunters, aided and abetted by an expert hunting dog, succeeded in tracking and capturing yesterday morning, an exceptionally large raccoon, and today Simon B. Harris, one of the members of the party, is proudly displaying a beautiful coon skin which he has sent to Brooklyn, N. Y., to be tanned, and will later be worn as a neckpiece by Mrs. Harris.

Another member of the hunting party, County Commissioner Erson B. Barlow, is today celebrating his birthday and it is presumed that coon steak will form a part of the menu at his home this evening.

Others in the party were Bernard F. McCardle, John C. Melloon and Seftonian Anthony of Carlisle. The hunt was most interesting and conducted strictly in accordance with the rules and regulations as provided by the statutes of the commonwealth.

The raccoon is one of the prehistoric specimens of its kind that has been seen here in some time.

A peculiar feature connected with the hunt, the hunters report, was the fact that one of the forward legs of the animal was found to have been caught in a trap at one time, but the injury had been so well healed over as to appear that a surgical operation had been performed.

Although the members of the party modestly admit that they are pretty good hunters, they also wish to give a fair share of credit to Mr. Melloon's dog, who tracked the animal persistently and finally trapped it in a tree where it was shot.

LOWELL DELEGATES AT CONVENTION

The annual convention of the Massachusetts Police association opened in Fitchburg this morning at 11 o'clock with several delegates from Lowell present. The following officers, with never of one vote each, represented the local department: Edward Flanagan, member of the state executive board; Richard Grogan, secretary for the Lowell branch; William Kenay, Patrick Garay, John W. McNulty, Herbert Goldrick, Walter Nickles. The convention continued through the afternoon and evening and will proceed all day tomorrow. The Lowell officers will remain in Fitchburg to attend the entire session, expenses being paid by assessment upon members of the local force.

NEW WAY TO REMOVE HAIRS CREATES SENSATION

(Actually Takes Out the Roots)

What beauty specialists regard as one of the most important discoveries in recent years is the electrolytic method of removing superfluous hairs. Its great advantage, of course, lies in the fact that it actually removes the hair roots. It does this easily, instantly, harmlessly. Sufferers from the annoying "hairy" need no longer despair. The actual hair-roots come out before your very eyes, leaving the skin as smooth and hairless as a baby.

Because it offers such complete relief, a stick of electrolysis is the most inexpensive thing a woman can buy for the removal of hairy growths. For the same reason, beauty specialists are having a growing demand for it. You can use it with entire safety. It is so harmless one could even eat it without any ill effect.

ROOT DISCUSSES LEAGUE TO FORM $100,000,000 CORPORATION IN CAMPAIGN SPEECH

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—Elihu Root, in his only address on the League of Nations during the presidential campaign, last night declared that the treaty of peace with Germany would have been ratified, and America would have been a member of the league, if President Wilson had been willing. "Mr. Wilson, however, was not willing. He insisted upon the treaty absolutely unchanged."

Mr. Root declared that "we shall promote the peace of the world" by electing Senator Harding, republican candidate for president, whose stand on the league, he said, was unchanged from the time he voted for ratification of the peace treaty and League of Nations with the senate reservations. The election of Governor Cox, democratic presidential nominee, he said, meant the effort to have the United States join the League of Nations, without change, as it was brought back from Europe by President Wilson.

"Several European nations have already given notice of halt a dozen changes in the covenant which they propose to urge at a meeting of the assembly of the league next month," Mr. Root said. It is plain that the issue is not between a League of Nations and no League of Nations.

The question is whether the agreement creating the league shall be accepted absolutely unchanged, or shall it be modified to meet the Americans? I would be glad to have the publication of the agreement changed so as to obviate these objections. Then would follow an ordinary common sense negotiation as to the best way to obviate the objections.

"WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.—A proposal for the organization of a $100,000,000 corporation for foreign trade financing was made at the annual convention of the American Bankers' Association today by its committee on commerce and marine. By co-operating with merchants, manufacturers, exporters and producers, the report said, and taking advantage of the Edge law, the corporation could issue a billion dollars in debenture bonds for sale in the United States and the extension of credits abroad.

John McHugh, chairman of the committee, presented the report, which recommended steps to put the corporation into business operation by Jan. 1, and solicitation of subscriptions to its capital stock from the public.

"We recommend the organization under a plan of a large corporation as preferable to a smaller one," the report said, "because it will attract the best expert talent, will have the efficiency attaching to large organization, will give the utmost protection to the investor and will be more readily able to create a market for its debentures by its approved purpose of creating credit."

The report said the economic future of the United States was "bound up in the future of our trade relations with other peoples." Under existing conditions, it added, manufacturers "unable to grant foreign customers credit necessary to continuing foreign purchases, have been forced to restrict their activities in the foreign field."

"Under the Edge law such a corporation as contemplated would be permitted to issue debentures against foreign securities carefully purchased by it to the amount of 10 times its capital, so that it would have a maximum ability financially of about a billion dollars," the report said.

It is further suggested that the corporation be made up from similar geographical areas to those of the federal reserve bank district. The committee said it was "satisfied such a corporation would be a potent influence in promoting thrift and production in the United States."

12-YEAR-OLD PRODIGY

Columbia Freshman in Master of 12 Languages—Graduated From High School at 11.

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—A 12-year-old prodigy who is master of 12 languages, keenly interested in battling averages, and devoted to marbles when played for keeps, was found today to be the youngest freshman ever entered at Columbia. He is Edward Robbie Hardy, Jr., of New York. He is five feet, three inches in height, weighs 143 pounds, and his mother says, is perfectly normal in appetite, habits and recreation. He spends a great deal of time in the university swimming pool, when not engaged in reading Babylonian tablets, investigating the fourth dimension or delving into other erudite subjects.

He started school at the age of three and bounded over three classes a year, graduating from high school at 11. He was elected editor of his high school newspaper, and was a leader in school activities.

KING OF ITALY

$1,000,000 TAX

ROME, Oct. 20.—King Victor Emmanuel has estimated the value of his estate at $2,000,000 lire, which at the present rate of exchange, is approximately $3,500,000. This estimate was made in compliance with the law establishing a tax on patrimony and the tax the king will pay will amount to about $1,000,000. The estate of the queen is valued at only 1,000,000 lire.

Good Advice to a Dyspeptic

Give the Stomach Help to Digest Food and to Offset the Tendency to Acidity. Use Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

The wholesale advice to starve your way to stomach health is mighty poor judgment. Only the most robust constitution can stand such a strain. If you cannot eat, if what you eat sours, if your indigestion follows certain foods that cause heartburn, sour stomach, or gasiness, try Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. And if there is a feeling as if your stomach had turned into concrete these tablets help digest the food and thus bring relief. Many physicians write Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets as directed on a prescription blank when patients are distressed with frequent attacks of indigestion.

They furnish the alkaline effect to offset acidity of the stomach and also pancreatic to aid intestinal digestion of starchy foods.

Get a 50 cent box at any drug store, eat what you enjoy, take a tablet or two after meals and thus avoid the distress due to indigestion or dyspepsia.—Advt.

EAGLES' CHARTER OPEN

Ex-Congressman Thomas C. Reilly of New Haven, Conn., and Charles Laird, deputy organizer for the state, were the speakers of the evening at the meeting of the Lowell Aerie of Eagles last night. Entertainment was provided by Commissioner James E. Donnelly, James P. Owens, Patrick O'Grady and Patrick Reilly. James J. Bowen, president of the local organization, presided. The feature of the meeting was the opening of the charter for a period of three months. Within that time every effort possible will be made to enroll new members. At the conclusion of the work an open meeting will be made to those desirous of joining the organization. When Mr. Reilly arrived in this city from Boston he was greeted at the depot by a number of local letter carriers. The congressman has shown a very friendly attitude to postoffice employees in his work.

FREDDIE FROG READS:

The next person Mr. Scribble Spratch called on to read was Freddie Frog. "Read on page ten," said the fairy-man schoolmaster, and Freddie thumbed over his reader until he found the place. He cleared his throat, bowed to Nancy, then to the visitors, and, lastly, to the school, for Then there's Mr. Sylvester T. Frog.

FREDDIE FROG CLEARED HIS THROAT, BOWED TO NANCY, THEN TO THE VISITORS, AND LASTLY TO THE SCHOOL.

Freddie had just as grand manners as his dad. Nick wasn't there that day, as he was out hunting up trunks for the Meadow Grove school. This was what Freddie read:

Have you ever been to Pollywog Town? It's a place of most famous renown. Where the pinchy crabs creep, and the mud turtles sleep, And the fish slowly swim up and down. There lives Miss Clementina May Del,

Who sets Pollywog Town all agog. With his shirts and the hats, and his many cravats, Which he buys at the store by the bog. Mr. Turtle's another gay bird. Who lives in this land, I have heard. He stays under his back and just peeps out the crack in a manner completely absurd. Freddie Frog closed his book here, made another bow, and took his seat. (Copyright, 1920, N.E.A.)

"GRANDEST ON EARTH" SAYS LOWELL WOMAN

"I Will Always Bless the Day I Got Tanlac," She Says—Feels Like a New Woman Now

"I will always bless the day I got Tanlac, for while I am just now on my second bottle, I already feel like a different woman," said Mrs. Laura C. Burns, of 22 Everett St., Lowell, Mass., the other day.

"During the last five years I had a world of trouble from indigestion. I had hardly any appetite, and everything I ate soured on my stomach, and formed gas, which caused palpitation of the heart, shortness of breath and such sharp pains in the pit of my stomach I could hardly stand it. I always had to be very careful about what I ate, for anything the least bit heavy would cause me to suffer perfect agony.

"I was nervous and restless and it was always hard for me to sleep at night. My liver was sluggish. I suffered a great deal from constipation, and had such awful headaches it seemed like my head would burst. I was subject to spells of dizziness, when everything looked black before me, especially if I stooped over. All my strength and energy seemed gone from me, and I just had a tired, druggy feeling all the time.

"Well, I read a number of statements about Tanlac that fitted my case so well I decided to give it a trial for myself, and I began to improve with the first few doses, and now I just feel like I had been made new. My appetite didn't have any appetite, and just the most anything I want and haven't a sign of indigestion since I began taking Tanlac.

"I am no longer constipated, those headaches and spells of dizziness have left me, and I sleep like a child all night. All those tired feelings are things of the past, and I feel good all the time. I just can't fully express how grateful I do feel to Tanlac. It is certainly the grandest medicine on earth, and I am constantly telling my friends about it."

Tanlac is sold in Lowell by Greens drug store, Merrimack square, under the personal direction of a special Tanlac representative and by the leading druggist in every town.—Adv.

SPLENDID CONCERT AT THE STRAND

Their enthusiasm a bit dimmed by two disappointments following announcements of the appearance of Mme. Schumann-Heink, the music-lovers who assembled at the Strand last evening did so with the feeling that they were accepting a substitute and approached their evening's entertainment in an attitude of more or less resignation. However, before the evening's concert had made much progress their aloofness changed to warmth, for the splendid artists before them and when the closing numbers came, there was as much genuine enthusiasm prevalent as though the more famous singer had herself been present.

The evening's artists were Mme. Julia Clausen, mezzo soprano; Mr. Arthur Middleton, baritone; and Miss Irma Seydel, violinist. Mme. Clausen and Mr. Middleton are at the height of their powers while Miss Seydel, more youthful than the others, is fast approaching the height of her particular art. Their efforts enhanced by exceptionally capable accompanists, the trio soon made one forget the disappointment felt earlier in the evening.

The evening's program as published in advance was faithfully followed and supplemented with generous encores. A detailed review here would be tedious because of its length, but several numbers stood out with exceptional appeal. Madame Clausen sang with all the vigor of the mature artist that she is and in "The Cry of Rachel" displayed a dramatic force worthy of a tragedienne. Her "Tessie" and "Cradle Song" showed her in less strenuous vein, but with no less fervor. "Bonjour Suzon," "Carmen" and "My Love Is a Muleteer" were examples of her lighter strain. Mr. Middleton presented a delightfully varied program. He inclined toward the lighter, sweeping numbers as exemplified in "Arm, Arm, Ye Brave," "I Am a Roamer Bold," "Sausage Song" and "Danny Deever." His "Largo Al Falcetto" or cavatina from the Barber of Seville was energetic and fervent. "Follow Me Ome" had his audience enthralled for the time and "Mother & Mine" was an appealing bit of sentiment.

Miss Seydel enhanced her reputation gained on previous appearances here with all the refinements of the real student of her instrument, she readily won her listeners. Miss Wilhelm Wagner accompanied her ably while Mr. Frederick Person, accompanying Mme. Clausen and Mr. Middleton, added greatly to the evening's pleasure.

It was announced that the Boston Symphony Orchestra, with Pierre Monteux, director, and with Gustav Havens as soloist, would give a concert at the Strand Monday evening, Nov. 22.

BILLERICA NEWS

The school committee and the finance committee of the town of Billerica held a conference recently relative to the transportation of school children from their homes to their respective schools. The conference was called as a result of the recent increase in fares put into effect on the system of the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway Co. and both bodies were of the opinion that it would be cheaper to inaugurate a motor bus system than to continue transporting the children by trolley. In the course of the conference it was brought out that the cost of transporting the children under the new rate would be $200 a year, while a bus system, which would cover the entire town would cost about $5000 less a year. The matter was taken under advisement and it is believed that within a short time the school committee will establish a bus system.

DEMOCRATS OPTIMISTIC

Chairman White Hopes G. O. P. Will Keep Harding On Stump

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—The following telegram from George White, chairman of the democratic national committee, now in Chicago, was made public yesterday by national headquarters:

"If they will just keep Senator Harding on the stump our presidential majority will be 500 electoral votes, and instead of a small majority in the senate we will have 15.

"Ohio is assured for Cox and Roosevelt. The same is true of Indiana and the southern border states are as safe for democracy as Texas. Western Chairman Doremus turned over his reports to me today, and they revealed a west and a northwest business like a flame for the League of Nations.

"Anxiety has followed confidence among the republican leaders. Their next state of mind will be desperation. Evidence of certain democratic victories will have begun to accumulate until those who are in close touch with the democratic campaign will sit with perfect confidence the following two weeks from today."

TO FEED HUNGRY RUSSIAN CHILDREN

BERLIN, Oct. 20.—The American relief administration of the European children's fund is considering the possibility of feeding hungry children in Russia this winter and will submit all possible information on the subject to the competent authority in America where the decision must be made.

Two of the relief members, Messrs. Pate and Walker, who accompanied the Polish delegation to Moscow and later visited Moscow and Petrograd reported to the American relief administration officials here that they were greatly impressed with the system of feeding and the care for children under the Bolshevik rule.

W. L. Fleming, who is in charge of the relief work in Europe, said the children are given first preference under the Bolshevik scheme of food distribution and, on the whole, this work is well and ably carried out within the limits of the food supplies which are available.

"Messrs. Pate and Walker reported the food conditions were had through the portions of Russia which they saw, with every likelihood of an extremely bad winter in the big cities and consequently great suffering among the children."

Mr. Brown added that he was unable to hazard the opinion whether the American relief will go to Russian children as the question involved political issues with which the European representatives of the American relief administration is unwilling to deal.

The American relief administration has turned over $144,762 to the American Friends service committee (Quakers) for feeding undernourished German children. This amount will feed 140,000 children for one month.

20 BROAD ST., NEW YORK CITY

ENGLAND DENOUNCED BY IRISH BISHOPS

DUBLIN, Oct. 20. (By the Associated Press).—The Irish Catholic bishops met yesterday at Maynooth with Cardinal Logue presiding and the entire hierarchy signed a resolution denouncing "terrorism, partiality and failure as characteristics of the present Irish government."

The bishops recall in the resolution that "when the country was crimeless" the bishops warned the government against oppressive measures. They declare "it is not a question of basic reprisals, but of indiscriminate state of savages, deliberately wreaked on the whole countryside, without any proof of complicity in crime, by those ostensibly employed to protect lives and property."

The resolution declares that the press is gagged, that public meetings are suppressed. It also says there has been brutal treatment of clergymen and that the preventing of Archbishop Mannix of Australia from visiting Ireland was "one of the most unwise steps purblind and tyrannical oppression could take."

The bishops demand a full inquiry into the situation and urge the right of Ireland to choose its own government.

CRIMES INCREASE IN EUROPE

BUDAPEST, Oct. 20.—Professor Rusten Vambery, a famous criminologist of the Budapest University, has told the correspondent of the Associated Press that the number of heinous crimes has been increased in the war-defeated countries of Central Europe to ten times their pre-war percentage.

"The criminal, in his revolt against society, is becoming more and more desperate," he said. "The continued increase of crimes, however, stupefying in itself, is far less appalling than the increasing inhumanity of the criminal. The sentimental assassin of medieval Italy or Robin Hood, the type of rough but good-hearted outlaw of the forests, was an angel compared to the cold-blooded villain of our days."

WALTER E. GUYETTE, Auctioneer
Office, 53 Central Street, Lowell, Mass. Telephone 2415.

Administrator's sale at public auction of the estate of Catherine F. Cusack, late of Lowell, deceased, consisting of two cottage houses, and about seven and one-half acres of land situated in South Lowell, Mass., at Nos. 234-260 Woburn street, also lot of 7650 square feet adjoining the above and fronting on Circuit avenue, the same to be sold all in one lot to the highest bona fide bidder, at absolute and unrestricted public sale, on SATURDAY, THE 23rd DAY OF OCT., 1920, AT 3:30 O'CLOCK P. M.

By virtue of a license granted to me by the Probate Court, I will sell to whomsoever will bid the most the above situated properties comprising two cottage houses, and a lot of seven and one-half acres and a lot of 7650 square feet of land, in one lot.

The cottage at No. 234 Woburn street has six rooms, three rooms on the first floor, of parlor, dining-room, and kitchen, and three chambers on the second floor. The house is supplied with gas throughout, and has city water. In the rear of the building is shed and henery. At No. 260 Woburn street is a two-story dwelling and stable, the house has eight good size rooms, has gas throughout, and city water. There are reception hall, parlor, dining-room with china closet, kitchen, pantry and one bedroom on the first floor, and four pleasant chambers on the floor above.

The lot of seven and one-half acres has a frontage on Woburn street of 302 feet, more or less, and a depth of about 1050 feet. The land is well situated for use as a city farm, or could easily be subdivided, and sold as building lots, and its location directly on the electric car line, and being but a single car fare, close to church, school, etc., gives it an added value for future improvement; it is within a very short distance of a considerable real estate development, and this section is regarded and is known particularly as a home locality.

The lot adjoining contains 7650 square feet, has a frontage on Circuit avenue of 22 feet, and a depth of 35 feet. This lot adjoins the building at No. 234 Woburn street, and its dimensions make it a splendid building lot and is situated within half a minute's walk of Woburn street, and is in a neighborhood where about everyone owns their own home.

This sale should especially attract all classes interested in real estate, the home-seeker, the investor, and the speculator, as the dwellings are rented and can be made most attractive with a small outlay, and also with the large tract of land, it can be used by investor or speculator, by subdivision, and erection of homes, which will receive a ready market, and for the home-seeker, the chance to occupy one dwelling, and rent the other, and use the large area for farm purposes, if he so chooses.

TERMS: $400 must be paid to the auctioneer just as soon as the property is struck off. Other terms made known at sale.

By order of John J. O'Connell, Administrator, of the Estate of Catherine F. Cusack.
J. Henry Gilbride, Atty.

"The Driver Under the Hood"

The Most Careful Driver in the World At Your Service

Every truck owner knows that one of the most serious problems of truck operation is securing careful, experienced drivers.

Tests have proved that the cost of operating a truck driven by a careless man, are often double the amount spent when an experienced driver handles the same truck.

Clydesdale engineers have solved the problem by a wonderful mechanical device—the Clydesdale Automatic Controller. Clydesdale users call it "The Driver Under the Hood."

It watches the motor every instant, with all the care of the most experienced driver, automatically opening and closing the throttle to keep the speed constant as different conditions of road and load are met, such as hills, down grades, mud, sand and traffic.

The motor cannot race—it cannot be injured by sudden acceleration. "The Driver Under the Hood" protects every moving part of the truck against abuse and careless handling. It saves gas, saves bearings, universals, axles, tires.

It literally saves hundreds of dollars a year for every Clydesdale owner.

It is by long odds the most noteworthy improvement in motor truck construction. Be sure to see it.

Over 3000 People Welcome Democratic Candidate For President at Middlesex Street Depot

GOV. COX MAKES GOOD IMPRESSION

Crowd Cheers as He Outlines His Position on the Irish Question

Says Harding is Trying to Wiggle and Wobble Himself Into White House

"The Irish question is a world tragedy that concerns every people in the world; the conscience of the whole world is aroused and it will not permit the present war of extermination to go on," said James M. Cox, democratic candidate for the presidency from the rear platform of his special train at the Middlesex street station last night. A cheer from an audience of over 3000 people greeted his remarks. The candidate reached Lowell about 6:25 p. m. and spoke for five minutes. He was introduced by Jackson Palmer, democratic candidate for congress in the fifth district who called for three cheers for "our next president" as the governor appeared on the rear platform of his special. There was but one interruption by a heckler during the speech, and the heckler received scant sympathy from the crowd.

Mr. Cox began his address by saying that he was very happy to have the

PASSING THE HANDSHAKE

WAS FOND OF COOKE GIRLS

Testimony That Miss McShea Hugged and Kissed Her Nieces in Hospital

Claimed That She Said They Had Always Been Good to Her

It was testified that Catherine McShea had shown that she was fond of her nieces, the Cooke girls, that she hugged and kissed them while she was in St. John's hospital, and that she had said they should never want so long as she had money, in the trial of the case in equity in the superior court today to have a transfer of bank books belonging to Miss McShea to her nieces set aside on the ground that undue influence was used in securing the transfer and that the deceased was not of sound mind at the time the transfer was made. The suit was brought by Richard Brabrook Walsh, administrator of F. N. Harvey's estate, for the complainant, F. N. Pearson and Michael L. Sullivan of Salem for the defendants, Misses Florence G. and Susie Cooke.

Miss Susie Cooke was the first witness of the morning. She said that she saw her aunt Tuesday, April 15, after she was injured. Her aunt told her to go to Margaret Gady and get the keys to her trunk. She said that her aunt told her there were three bank books in the trunk and that she was instructed to take them.

Witnesses said that Mrs. Morrison, a niece of the deceased, was in the hospital when her aunt told her to get the keys to the trunk. She stated that her aunt said, "I want Florence to have $1000."

Witness asserted that Mrs. Morrison jumped from the chair on which she was seated and exclaimed, "Don't forget I am here, Aunt Kate; don't forget me." She said her aunt hugged her and kissed her when she gave instructions that the bank books should be obtained from the trunk.

Witness testified regarding obtaining the bank book and said she had found them where her aunt had said they would be found.

Told To Keep Books

Her aunt told her, witness asserted, to keep the books until she was told what to do with them. She said John McShea was in the hospital when her aunt hugged and kissed her, and told her to get the bank books, and that he promptly left the room.

Witness said that Alice Morrison came to her home later and that she was in a very nervous condition. Mrs. Morrison, it was testified, pounded

COX CONTINUES N. E. CAMPAIGN

Faced Liveliest Bombardment of Questions of Campaign at Providence

Gives Views on League and the Liquor and Irish Questions—Great Reception

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Oct. 20.—Probably the liveliest bombardment of questions during his campaign was experienced by Gov. Cox of Ohio here today, with several thousand persons on the public square. Holding what the democratic presidential candidate called a "town meeting" the governor was pined with questions upon the League of Nations and the liquor and Irish questions.

A woman asked the governor his

HAVE REPUBLICANS ON THE RUN, SAYS COX

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—Governor Cox in a telegram from Boston, made public at Democratic national headquarters today, said:

"We have the enemy on the run, and it now looks like a sweeping victory."

Senator Pat Harrison, chairman of the Democratic speakers' bureau, who returned from Boston today, said:

"New England apparently is as much on fire for the League of Nations and the democratic cause as other parts of the country. Governor Cox is right. We have the opposition on the run. The campaign of misrepresentation conducted by the republican leaders has failed."

Views regarding maintenance of the Volstead law. The governor asked whether she had put the same question to Senator Harding, his republican opponent, and reiterated that the senator had voted "33 times wet and two times dry" and owned brewery stock.

Retaliating that he opposed any prohibition legislation "in conflict with the constitution as interpreted by the supreme court of the United States" and had closed Ohio saloons on Sundays, the governor said that he had been elected governor three times, adding: "And the liquor interests never contributed a nickel to my campaigns, then or now."

The governor's statement of his position upon the Irish question, for its presentation to the league, was cheered and when he declared for "self-determination" a man asked:

"Does that apply to Ulster?" "Ulster is a part of Ireland," the governor replied.

Attacking Senator Harding's position

SAYS OVERTURES MADE TO HIM

Sen. France Declares French Writer Sent Proposal on Probability of New League

Urges Convention of Friends of Peace—Refuses to Give Name

CHICAGO, Oct. 20.—Senator France of Maryland said here today that overtures had been made to him by a distinguished French woman on the probability of America joining with France and other countries in forming an association of nations to prevent war.

The proposal dealt chiefly with desirability of calling "an international convention of friends of peace." Senator France said the offer was much the same as those made to Senator Harding and that although the writer said she believed she was expressing the views of the French people, the government of France was in no way connected with the affair.

"A distinguished woman writer of France made the offer to me," he said. "She is a member of an organization which is working quietly among the thinkers of her nation in order to form a body, in connection with the United States, which will give the subject nations a definite chance for self-government as soon as they have proved themselves capable of it."

It does not seem to be generally known in this country that the labor party of Great Britain and the workers of France are strongly opposed to the league of nations at present constituted. Similar bodies in other European nations endeavored to have inserted a clause in the Versailles treaty which would give a subject nation a position in relation to the great power to which it belonged analogous to that existing between the Philippine Islands and the United States.

"The imperialistic officials who formed the great council that drew up the league of nations refused to permit the change in that clause. Its proponents of those days are now working quietly to secure a new league. I have had letters from the lawyers' association of Calcutta, from Ireland and from other centers of subject nations indicating that the movement is growing for a new covenant that will really govern the world."

Senator France said he did not wish to make known the name of the woman writer as it might make trouble for her with her own government.

LITHUANIA THREATENS TO INTERN POLES

WARSAW, Oct. 19 (By the Associated Press).—Relations between Poland and Lithuania are becoming more strained, according to advices from M. Kamenskii, Polish minister to Latvia, who has been attending the conference of Baltic states at Riga. On the eve of the return to Paris of the League of Nations commission, which has been attempting to reach a solution of questions arising between Poland and Lithuania, threats have been made by Lithuania to intern all Poles as a reprisal for the occupation of Vilna by General Zeligowski's army. As a consequence, many Poles are reported to be leaving for their native country.

WHIPPED BY MEN WEARING HOODS

Man Seized After Attempting to Aid Woman in Settlement of Estate

Rope Placed Around Neck Too Short for Hanging—Beating Followed

Lash Marks on Body, Neck Scarred by Rope and Clothing Stiff With Blood

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 20.—Peter McMahon of Yonkers, N. Y., with his wrists scarred by a rope and his back bearing the marks of a whip, left a northbound Pennsylvania railroad train today and sought the police for medical attention. He said he was seized and whipped Monday night a few miles outside of Trenton, S. C., after he had attempted to assist Miss Florence Powell, of Aiken, S. C., in a settlement which involved a division of her father's estate.

His underclothing was stiff with blood and, besides lash marks his body and neck bore the marks of ropes with which he said his tormentors had attempted to hang him.

McMahon, who is 35 years old, said he believed his assailants were adopting methods of the Ku Klux Klan. He said he was seized when he left the train at Trenton and was driven into the country in an automobile. When it stopped, he said, eight men wearing white hoods gathered around and beat him.

"Then they threw a rope around my neck," he said, "then tried to put the other end over a tree, but it would not reach. After a severe beating they told me they decided to let me go."

"The blindfolded man, putting a hood over my head exactly like the ones they wore, then led me to an automobile and we drove to a house where I was fed. They called a physician to examine my wounds."

"Then they drove me to Denmark, S. C. They gave me money to buy my ticket to New York, after making me promise I would not return. All the way from Denmark to Washington, someone came into the car occasionally, and, after looking at me, retired into another coach. This man acted as guard to see that I did not leave the train."

McMahon said he was too weak to leave the train at Washington. He told the police he was friend, and advised of Miss Powell. Her father lives at Aiken, and is president of a bank. Recently, according to McMahon, the father made a division of his property among his children. Florence Powell's share was $50,000.

McMahon said that when one of the men who beat him asked if he would sign a paper saying that Miss Powell was incompetent to handle her own money, he refused. He said he was beaten with clubs. A rope was tied around his neck, he said, and he was dragged for a long time.

McMahon said, "and she and I went to Aiken last week to see if we could not get a better share for her."

LEAGUE WORTH A TRIAL, SAYS MARSHALL

CORBIN, Ky., Oct. 20.—Vice President Marshall in an address here last night declared that the United States would risk nothing by joining the League of Nations.

"Should it develop later that the league is a bad thing," he said, "this country could get rid of it through a repeal act of congress. The league is worth a trial as it promises great things, but should it fail we would be no worse off than we now are."

WOULD TAKE FORMER GERMAN COLONIES

CHICAGO, Oct. 20.—Session of the former German colonies in Africa to the United States as part payment for war loans made to France and England was urged by Senator France of Maryland in an address here last night. He valued the colonies at $5000 an acre or $5,000,000,000.

TO SETTLE BIG MINERS' STRIKE

Negotiations to End Tie-up of British Coal Industry Believed Assured

Reported Proposals Are in Preparation by Both Sides of Controversy

LONDON, Oct. 20.—Negotiations which might settle the strike of British miners were today believed to be assured. Government officials and labor leaders who outlined their positions before the opening session of parliament, have shown their desire to reach an understanding and belief was general today that proposals were in preparation by both sides of the controversy.

Premier Lloyd George has definitely declared he is ready to enter into negotiations, but he has laid emphasis on the fact that the government wants a final settlement of the differences which brought about a cessation of work in British mines last Saturday. He has stated plans for a tentative wage increase, pending a complete adjustment, would not be satisfactory as that method of meeting the present situation would threaten trouble later.

KING OF GREECE SHOWS SLIGHT IMPROVEMENT

ATHENS, Oct. 20.—A slight improvement was noted in King Alexander's condition today. He passed a better night. Lung congestion remained stationary. The wound caused by the bite of a monkey, is improving, but an examination of liquid extracted from his lungs showed the presence of pneumonia germs.

PARIS, Oct. 20.—Confirmation of rumors of the death of King Alexander of Greece had not been received at the Greek legation here today.

CLERGYMAN KILLED IN AUTO CRASH

FITCHBURG, Oct. 20.—Rev. Burton S. Gilman of Westminster, retired clergyman, was stricken with a heart attack while driving his automobile near his home this afternoon. His car ran up an inclined embankment and he slid out striking his head and breaking his neck. The medical examiner believes the heart attack caused death before the victim's neck was broken. For a number of years Rev. Mr. Gilman was pastor of the First Congregational church in Gardner.

DEBATE ON IRISH QUESTION OPENS

Arthur Henderson Demands Inquiry Into Reprisals by Soldiers in Ireland

Scores Aggressive Policy of British Government in Speech in Commons

LONDON, Oct. 20.—The eagerly awaited debate on the Irish situation was precipitated in the house of commons today by Arthur Henderson, former labor member of the cabinet, who offered a motion demanding an inquiry into reprisals by the police and soldiers in Ireland.

While admitting that the armed forces of the crown had suffered provocation, he declared the character of the reprisals they had taken was "quite in keeping with the aggressive policy which has been consistently pursued by the government."

The government's policy, he said, seemed to aim at stamping out nationalist opinion and breaking the spirit of the Irish people.

REPORT OF RECEIVERS IN THE PONZI CASE

BOSTON, Oct. 20.—The federal receivers of Charles Ponzi in a preliminary report today, said that they have been able to collect to date only $123,035 in cash to meet the claims for millions presented by an army of disappointed investors in his scheme.

In addition, however, the receivers hold property which has not been appraised, certificates of deposit aggregating $1,058,221 from the Hanover Trust company, now closed, and $225,000 in notes secured and unsecured. The bank commissioner of Massachusetts has two notes for $20,000 each which he refuses to deliver, according to the receivers, miscellaneous notes for $1500, and other notes, the status of which is uncertain. In a safe deposit box at the Hanover Trust company, are bank bills for $11,220, and gold pieces amounting to $457.50, and the receivers say they are holding Ponzi's $15,000 automobile for conversion into cash.

Pending his adjudication as a bankrupt, they have made no demand for any profits or other sums paid out by him, but some of those who received the 50 per cent. profit which Ponzi paid for 45-day investments before his scheme collapsed, have voluntarily relinquished sums amounting to $757.50. The receivers' expenses to date have been $10,122, half of which was for accounting fees.

theatre, will be seen in their latest release, "The Jailbird."
 "The Jailbird" is the story of a crook who attempts to swindle the inhabitants of a small town by promoting an oil boom and disposing of a large amount of worthless stock. However, the well comes in, his efforts at crookedness are foiled, and he finds himself the town's wealthiest and most respected citizen. To make the story complete, through his love for the prettiest girl in the village, he is reformed in a noble manner.
 The picture was directed by Lloyd Ingraham from a story by Julien Josephson. Doris May leads a capable supporting cast which includes such players as Lew Merrion, William Courtwright, Wilbur Highty, Otto Hoffman, Monty Collins and Bert Woodruff.
 The other big feature for the week-end will be "Half a Chance," a Jesse D. Hampton production, telling a powerful story of modern life.
 In procuring the cast for "Half a Chance," the Robert Thorpey special, the first of a series to be made by Jesse D. Hampton for Pathé, extreme care had to be exercised in selecting the exact types in order to make a realistic picture of a Frenchman. S. Isham's widely read novel of that name.
 The leading part was entrusted to that sterling actor, Hamilton, star of "Earthbound." The role required a player of finesse and powerful physique—a man who could portray both the derelict of the slums and the brilliant and cultured lawyer and member of society.
 The International News, a comedy, and a Burton Holmes travel picture will round out the program.

OPERA HOUSE
 "The Cave Girl," the latest back-to-nature comedy by Messrs. Middleton and Bolton, which is being presented this week by the Lowell players at the Opera House, is winning unstinted favor with the patrons of the city and vicinity. The piece is a rather unusual one, and it's handled in a highly entertaining fashion by the players. Miss Fiske looks and acts amusingly as the primitive girl of the Maine woods, and squeezes some good humor out of her part, as well as touches of pathos and a flinge of romance that creep into her life. The contrast between the girl as nature made her and the other one of the city, is interesting. You'll like the piece and the players.

THE STRAND
 A great crook play with Eugene O'Brien in the stellar role, entitled "The Wonderful Chance" is one of the good things on the bill at the Strand and will be shown for the first time today. O'Brien's portrayal of the role of "Swagger" Barlow is certainly interesting. You'll like the piece and the players.

VAR-NE-SIS
 CONQUERS RHEUMATISM for Lowell Pastor

Sir—In August, 1907, I was taken with a severe attack of sciatic rheumatism. My head and body were almost in a horizontal position, the pain was so great that my whole body was sometimes paralyzed; it seemed as though thousands of pins had been stuck in my body at once.

Var-ne-sis did a good thing for me, and everybody on my street, yes, in all the neighborhood, knows how I have been afflicted. Now they see me walk back and forth without the least difficulty, and look upon it as a miraculous relief. I am now well and strong. Rheumatism has left me for good—never felt better in my life.

Gratefully yours, interesting. Then there is Mrs. Sessie Hayakawa, in her latest screen triumph, "Ashes of Desire." The remainder of the bill has a comedy and weekly, Mary Pickford in "Suds" said to be one of her most artistic film offerings, will be shown for the last three days of the week, commencing with matinee on Thursday.

The last opportunity of seeing Constance Talmadge in "The Perfect Woman" and Neil Hart in "Hell's Oasis" will be afforded today as they are making their final showing at the Rialto theatre. NERVE WEAKNESS A CURSE TO THE NATION

"Mentally and Physically the Bodies of Nerve-Exhausted, Weak, Run-Down, Prematurely Old People Are Craving For Simple Organic Phosphate," Says

Physician
 There are ten million people in America today who are weak, nervous, lack energy and ambition and are exhausted mentally and physically to keep up their end in the modern battle of life.

These people need, according to physicians who have made a close study of present day living, a little organic phosphate with their food for a few weeks. When this is absorbed in the system, it becomes quickly converted into healthy living tissue, full of renewed energy and vigorous nerve force.

Thousands of people are finding this out every day, especially in the large cities where drastic living, a hurried, prize-winning sale of ultra-phosphate which is the one organic phosphate of the purest form best known to the public.

Phosphorus is vitally necessary to every living cell in the body, and especially the nerve cells.

It aids in strengthening disordered nerves, invigorating the brain cells and bringing that much admired keenness of mind.

Thin, restless people need Bitro-Phosphate most, for when nerve force is present, nerve cells are stronger and completely under control. This means more flesh where more flesh is needed. A. W. Dewey and every druggist has Bitro-Phosphate, for people are fast learning that simple remedies are best—Adv.

ROLL CALL MEETING

In the Chalmers Street Baptist church last evening a roll call meeting was held and to the call of clerk of the church, Edward Edmington, every member answered with a verse of Scripture. There were about 200 present. Rev. Edward Babcock, pastor of the First Baptist church, was the speaker of the evening and had as his topic, "The Mission of the Church." Following the address refreshments were served. There will be a meeting for the men of the parish tomorrow evening when W. B. Goodwin will deliver an address on the Holy Land.

CONDITIONS IN RUSSIA

Very Few Births With Big
Increase in Deaths—Metal
Plants Only Ones Running

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 19.—T. A.
Kuhn, a Lucerne business man who has just arrived here after a five-month trip to Moscow, told the correspondent of the Associated Press
that the birthrate in the Russian
cities had decreased almost to a point

where no more children were born,
while the deathrate was constantly increasing. The metal industries are the only ones operating, he said. Spraking of the high prices for food and
clothing, he added:
"Women in the cities are wearing
nondescript dresses made of patched
cloth and scraps of lace, scarfs, etc. I cannot see how anyone can live
through another winter except the
peasants."
The fact that in Moscow there are many passports of all nations makes
it possible to send Bolshevik propa-
gandists all over the world.
Mr. Kuhn returned to Constantinople via Turkestan and Baku. He said that it would be virtually impossible for Bolsheviks to penetrate India through

Turkestan because of the trackless
desert and unfriendly Mussulman
tribesmen. He said there are 100,000
German prisoners along the railway
from Orenburg to Tashkent, most of
whom did not know who won the war.
"In Baku the British and American
prisoners were made to clean the
streets and they were compelled to live in filth," said Mr. Kuhn.
"I came through Tiflis and was able
to observe that the Georgians are subjected to a tyrannous rule imposed by
a delegation from Moscow, against which they are not protesting."

TEACH ENGLISH
IN SERBIA SCHOOLS

BELGRADE, Serbia, Oct. 20.—English is being introduced throughout the schools of Serbia. It is now made a compulsory subject in the normal
schools. The first courses in English,
which were inaugurated in Belgrade a
year ago under an American teacher,
Dr. James Wild of Chicago, have
yielded such excellent results that the government has decided to make the
language a part of the curricula of all
schools.
Heretofore the dominating language
of the Serbians, apart from their native
tongue, has been German. The Germans were quick to see the advantages

of introducing their language as a means of acquainting the school children with the ways and customs of the German people. The pupils were given
little chance of acquiring the things
that go to make up the life and culture
of Anglo-Saxon civilization.
A very large proportion of Serbia's school teachers were killed in war, and having died during the Bulgarian occupation. Scores of school buildings
were destroyed, and most of the school
books printed in the Serbian language
were deliberately confiscated and burned by the Bulgars. Even titles and the influx of pupils that the former were carried off, the object of the Bulgarians being to displace all books in

the Serbian language with publications
in their own tongue.
Notwithstanding these disasters, out
of 2109 schools in Serbia, nearly 2000
have reopened. So great is the thirst
for education in Serbia that it is a common thing for children in the country districts to leave their homes before daybreak and walk for several hours to reach school, not returning
home until late in the evening. The
school buildings, owing to the ravages
of war, often are without windows,
panes, heating, desks, books and even
writing material.
So great is the shortage of teachers
and the influx of pupils that the former
have to work from dawn until night,
taking their classes in "relays."

SAYS G. O. P. WILL
CARRY 30 STATES

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—At least 30
states will be carried by Harding and Coolidge in the November election,
Scott C. Bone, director of publicity of
the republican national committee, predicted yesterday.
"There is a possibility that the number will reach 35," Mr. Bone said.
"This means that the republicans will carry all the north and break into the
south."
Mr. Bone said he based his prediction upon advices from newspapers
and newspapermen all over the country.

BIRD'S ROOFS

Made in New England

Re-roof now, protect your home and property against damage this winter

When winter drops down on New England with its sleet, snow and low temperature, it is a test for any roof—and New England is dotted with Bird Roofs that have been weather- and water-proof for twenty years without a single repair.

There is a correct way to buy roofing. So don't guess what you need—but go to your nearest Bird dealer and explain the kind of building you are to put up or re-roof.

He will advise you as to the Bird Roofing best suited to your special needs.

If it is Bird's Paroid Roofing that your buildings require, you will find plenty of instances where it has protected dwellings, farms, garages, and factories from fifteen to twenty years without a penny for repairs.

Look at a real piece of roofing when you buy, not a small sample. Your Bird dealer will gladly unroll a good-sized stretch of Paroid for you to look at and feel, and test for thickness, firmness, pliability, and bright gray surfacing.

Paroid is an all-round quality roofing, especially adapted for low-pitched roofs but good also for steep roofs or siding.

Whether it is Bird's Paroid, Bird's Plain Slate-Surfaced Roll Roofings, Bird's Slate-Surfaced Designed Roofing (Art-Craft Tile Design or Shingle Design), or Bird's Shingles you need, the Bird dealer will show you the kind of roofing best suited to your requirements. This is the sure way to take the guess out of buying your roofing.

Bird's Roofs will not catch fire from falling sparks; they protect property from damage.

LODGE ATTACKS WILSON

Declares "His Acts Are Those of a Third Napoleon"

NEWARK, N. J., Oct. 20.—Senator Lodge addressing a mass meeting here last night attacked President Wilson as an autocrat, declaring "his acts are those of a third Napoleon."

"The constitution," he said, "creates a representative democracy and divides the government into three great branches. The intent and purpose of the makers of the constitution were that not one of these branches should usurp or trespass on the powers of the other two."

"Mr. Wilson has throughout his administration steadily sought to usurp the functions of the legislative branch. He tried to make a government of one man. The country is conscious of this attempt, and intends to bring it to an end."

"There can be no more autocratic action by the president than his refusal to observe the law. When we talk of law and order we refer to the president as well as the average citizen. If the head of the nation does not obey the law, who can be expected to?"

"Let me say that I refer to the views of Mr. Wilson I refer to those of Cox and it saves time not to have to say it every time. Cox is heir to the Wilson policies."

CHALLENGES DEMOCRATS

Cravath Declares That Vote for Harding Is Not Vote Against the League in Speech in Boston

BOSTON, Oct. 20.—Paul D. Cravath of New York told an audience in Symphony hall last night that a republican victory this fall would mean "effective progress in bringing about the participation of the United States in an association of nations to promote peace and prevent war."

Such an association, he said, would be "an organization that will command that degree of popular support that is essential for the success of any great national effort."

Mr. Cravath said that he never felt "keener disappointment" over any public event than over the failure of the United States to become a member of the League of Nations.

"Lifelong republican that I am," he continued, "with distrust of the democratic party as the very essence of my political inheritance, I would not hesitate to vote against my party if I were convinced that the election of its candidates would be followed by a refusal of this country to co-operate with our allies in the great war in setting up effective international machinery to promote the league."

Advocating the election of Senator Harding and Governor Coolidge, Mr. Cravath challenged "the soundness of the democratic slogan that a vote for Harding is a vote against the league."

Six types of transmitting equipment in duplicate have been installed in France's great new wireless station at Lyons.

INDIAN MISSIONARY VISITS PARENTS HERE

Rev. Sister St. Gervais, formerly Miss Anna Landry, a member of the order of the Sisters of Providence of Montreal, Que., who for the past 21 years has been doing missionary work among the Indians of British Columbia, is the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Landry, of 100 Cumberland road. The reverend sister arrived here last Friday and will remain in this city another week during which time she will be pleased to meet her former friends and acquaintances.

Rev. Sister St. Gervais is one of eight members of her order, who are in charge of a government boarding school at St. Eugene mission, a short distance from Cranbrook, B. C., which was erected and which is being maintained for the benefit of the Kootenay Indian children.

The Kootenay tribe of Indians in that district is divided into four reservations with a population of about 4000, the largest of which is at St. Eugene mission. The reservations cover a territory of about 50 square miles and each reservation has a little church of its own, 100 per cent of the tribe being Catholics. They are all under the supervision of a young Belgian priest, Rev. Fr. Lambert, O.M.I., who has been in that district about 12 years and who is now visiting his home country across the ocean.

The boarding school at St. Eugene mission, where Rev. Sister St. Gervais is located, was erected by the Canadian government some 21 years ago. It consists of a two-story cement block structure with all modern improvements including gymnasium for boys, recreation room for girls, shower baths, dining rooms, reading rooms and dormitories. The building is steam-heated and electrically lighted.

Its floors are of tile. It is an ideal building in every way.

The school stands on a fine tract of land. It is about six miles from the railroad station and is surrounded by hundreds of acres of good fertile soil. A greater portion of which is being cultivated by the male pupils of the school, while the little girls also do their share of the work.

The school maintains an attendance of about 100 children, about evenly divided, boys and girls. The children enter the school when five years old and they remain there until they have attained their 15th year. Classes are held the whole year with the exception of the month of September, when the children are allowed to spend four weeks with their parents. The building has two sections, one for the boys and the other for the girls. The forenoon is devoted to the teaching of languages, while in the afternoon the boys attend manual training classes, while the girls are taught sewing, cooking, etc. The manual training is being taught by a layman, who also has charge of the farm.

Spending about the Kootenay Indians the visitor said they attend strictly to their affairs and very seldom do they leave their district. They are very religious and devoted to their children. They are having considerable trouble in raising their families, however, for many of the boys and girls die before they reach the age of 14. The heavy death rate is due to tuberculosis, despite the attention of noted specialists.

The Kootenays live mostly on dried meat and fish and pay little attention to sanitary conditions and the spread of tuberculosis in their camps is attributed to their negligence. They are a thrifty people, quiet and law-abiding, very industrious and always ready to lend a helping hand, but they neglect their homes. In each of the reservations there is a small church, where about once every four months the priest celebrates mass. They have a government of their own which is composed of the chief of the tribe and members of his council, who are elected by the people and their word is law. Although their camps are a short distance from civilization, they are not molested in any way and are allowed to go along with their little business.

Four times a year on the feasts of Easter, Corpus Christi, All Saints and Christmas, the Kootenays of the four reservations assemble at the church of the St. Eugene mission where they attend mass and enter into joyous feasts which last some times three days. During the celebrations they tell the church bells and take their rifles and fire into the air, these being signs of exultation. They despise intoxicating liquor, which they call the "Devil's spirit" and when one of their numbers is found under the influence of liquor he is immediately put into the lockup and kept there until he has completely recovered.

Referring back to the school Rev. Sister St. Gervais said the children are very industrious. They pick up the English language which is being taught them very quickly and they are also interested in sports and music. The boys have formed several baseball teams and occasionally some of the best players of the various teams are merged into one team and the aggregation crosses bats with teams of the neighboring district. The boys have also a fine brass band, its members being fully equipped with instruments and uniforms, while the girls have a string orchestra.

In the fall the boys go into the woods and cut enough fuel to keep the heating plant of the school going all winter. Through their efforts there is now on the grounds a lake, which supplies great sport. A small brook running through the land has been dammed and the body of that part of the prairie has been dredged, so that now fishing and canoeing as well as swimming are enjoyed in the summer and in the winter the boys and girls indulge in skating.

"Although it feels good to be back in Lowell again," said Sister St. Gervais, "I feel homesick for the little Indians I have left at St. Eugene, for they are so good and so affectionate." The reverend sister has been called to the bedside of her mother, whom she had not seen for the past 14 years and inasmuch as the mother is now on her way to recovery, she will make her trip shorter and expects to return to her Kootenay Indians some time in the latter part of next week. The sister is enjoying the best of health and says the climate in the British Columbia mission is excellent.

Fill Your Blood With Iron If You Want To Be Strong

WITH PLENTY OF ENERGY AND POWER

Says Physician—Explains How Organic Iron Like Nuxated Iron Often Increases the Strength of Weak, Nervous, Run-down People in Two Weeks' Time.

You cannot expect to force ahead in life with plenty of energy and power if your blood is thin and watery any more than you can hope to run an automobile on water instead of gasoline. It takes pure, red blood—rich in iron—to keep the human machine working right. Without iron your every act on life's path is hindered, your strength is weakened, your blood is impoverished, and you drop almost like a feather.

But when such men and women supply the right kind of iron to their blood, a most surprising change often takes place," says Dr. John J. Van Nostrand, formerly Medical Inspector and Chief Physician at the Board of Health of New York City. "The weak, colorless blood which has been moving sluggishly in the veins becomes rich and red and courses through the body, building healthy tissue, giving renewed force and increased strength. Without this rich blood with plenty of iron in it, there can be no physical perfection or force to carry on one's work."

Let us take the wrong kind of iron may prove worse than useless just as the wrong sort of food will often fail to give the proper nourishment. Organic Iron—Nuxated Iron—by enriching the blood and creating new blood cells, strengthens the nerves, rebuilds the muscles and helps test the whole system with fresh vigor and endurance whether the patient be young or old. I strongly advise every man or woman who is lagged out by worry, work and other strains to build up strength and health by taking organic iron—Nuxated Iron—for I consider it one of the foremost blood and body-builders, the best to which I have ever had recourse.

Dr. James Francis Sullivan, formerly physician of Bellevue Hospital (Outdoor Dept.) New York and the Westchester County Hospital says: "I have strongly emphasized the great necessity of physicians making blood examinations of their weak, anemic, run-down patients. Thousands of persons go on year after year suffering from physical weakness and a little nervous condition due to lack of sufficient iron in their red blood corpuscles. To supply this iron deficiency and to help build strong, healthier men and women, better able physically to meet the demands of everyday life, these physicians should at every opportunity prescribe organic iron—Nuxated Iron—for in my experience it is one of the best tonic and red blood builders known to medical science."

If you are not strong or well, owe it to yourself to make the following test: See how long you can work or how far you can walk without becoming tired. Next take two five-grain tablets of organic Nuxated Iron three times per day for two weeks, then test your strength again and see how much you have gained.

Manufacturers' Note: Nuxated Iron, which is recommended above, is not a secret remedy but one which is well known to doctors everywhere. Unlike the older inorganic iron products it is easily absorbed and does not irritate the bowels, cause constipation, or upset the stomach. Each tablet of organic Nuxated Iron is stamped with a figure and the words "Sullivan's Nuxated Iron" and the words "Nuxated Iron" are embossed on each tablet, so that the public may feel assured of its genuineness. The manufacturer guarantees successful and satisfactory results to every purchaser or they will refund your money. It is dispensed by all good druggists.

GOV. COX DENOUNCES LODGE AT BOSTON

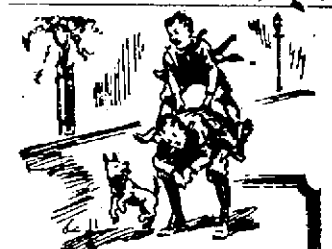

BOSTON, Oct. 20.—In a bitter attack on Senator Henry Cabot Lodge as "the greatest conspirator in all history," Gov. James M. Cox of Ohio, democratic candidate for president, delivered the most forceful and effective speech of his campaign in the presence of 25,000 wildly enthusiastic men and women on Boston common last night.

Heckled by opponents of the League of Nations, supporters of repeal of national prohibition, and interrupted at various times during his address, the candidate for president carried the fight right to his hecklers, answered their questions emphatically and frankly, and then, in turn, did his own little "heckling" by clever sallies which completely silenced his opponents and brought him, renewed and increased applause.

Not in years has a larger audience gathered on Boston common or elsewhere. Not in years has a candidate of any party for political office been accorded such a welcome in this city. Probably never before have men and women here listened as intently to and then displayed such enthusiasm for words of criticism of the senator from Massachusetts.

It was the worst exhortation of Senator Lodge that has been heard by a Massachusetts audience. Apparently realizing that the reported attitude of hostility in this state to the League of Nations is due almost entirely to support of Senator Lodge, Governor Cox lashed right and left at the man who leads the fight against the covenant of the League of Nations, the covenant that Candidate Cox declared at every meeting place in New England he is with "heart and soul."

shire and Massachusetts—right in the heart of "the enemy's country."

It was the final speech of 11 he had delivered since early yesterday morning, in every one of which he had made the league the issue overshadowing all others.

The attack on Senator Lodge and his demand for his retirement from public life was the second speech of its kind he had uttered during the day. Up in New Hampshire he had called for the retirement of Senator George H. Moses as one of the followers of Lodge, "the base conspirator."

The attack on Senator Lodge and the "whole heart and soul" defense of the League of Nations covenant was the theme of all the speeches of Governor Cox at his 11 stopping places in New England during the day.

In discussing Harding's attitude on the Irish question, Gov. Cox said: "On every possible occasion he has both spoken and voted against the principle of self-determination, not only for Ireland, but for every other small country."

When the subject of Philippine independence was up, he voiced the sentiment that America has never been concerned about consent of the governed, and voted against the Philippine independence bill; he has voted against every proposal for freedom touching the status of any dependencies of imperialistic governments. He voted against every reservation tending to make more clear the right of self-determination under the league. He voted for an amendment to the Gerry reservation to strike out the words "the principle of self-determination," thus committing the senate against that principle, and then voted against the reservation itself, squarely opposing the right of self-determination for the people of Ireland or any other country. And finally he expressed the sentiment that America had no concern about the difficulties of Great Britain and Ireland, which he described as a purely internal affair.

When he extolled himself from the difficulty of his blunder with the French humorist, he may return to the Irish question, especially as the statement of his attitude of unconcern there was seized upon by British journals as quasi-official and was followed by reprisals against Irish citizens by the soldiers of Great Britain's constabulary.

Taking up the league, the governor said:

"I ask you to reflect upon this: Has any critic of the league come forward with a substitute to take its place? If they can't give us something as good or better to take its place, then ought they not maintain a discreet silence? Now there you have the essentials of the league. You hear objections raised. How insincerely, how hypocritically they are spoken. The first one is that our sons will be sent overseas every time they have a back alley quarrel in Europe. How can you make a treaty that violates the constitution of the United States? Ask any high school boy or girl in the city and they will tell you that under the constitution the right to declare war is with the congress. You cannot pass a treaty that overturns the constitutional provision. There is no more that national groups, peoples that do not enjoy their own liberties and freedom, now can attain them under the operations of the league.

"I have been very much interested to hear Senator Harding say that the Irish question was a domestic affair; that it is a matter concerning England and Ireland only. It has developed, or seems to have developed, into a war of extermination, and if that be true it is not a matter concerning England alone; it concerns the morality and the conscience of all the world and every nation in the world. The League of Nations is a scientific assemblage of the conscience of the world; and to say that a war of extermination is not a world tragedy and that the conscience of men and women will not revolt against it is to affirm the belief that morality is no longer an element in the life of individuals or the life of nations. Under Article XI of the league, whenever a matter arises in the world to interfere with the good relations between nations, it can be presented to the league by any member of the league, and if I am your president—if the Irish question shall not have been settled—I will myself, if I have to, present the question and the cause of Ireland to the bar of public opinion of the world.

enthusiastic reception given to me in New Hampshire and Massachusetts. As I have journeyed east and west and back again, I have found growing audiences, increased attention and enthusiasm beyond bound.

"At no place has the quality of reception exceeded that in Massachusetts. I find here, more than anywhere else, the people resent the partisan conspiracy planned to deceive them with relation to the League of Nations.

"It is apparent to me that the American people will now reject a policy of political camouflage. They are laughing at the spectacle of the candidate who is uncertain even in his own mind. I am happy to say that the people of Massachusetts seem to understand and to express their understanding in the receptions given to me."

HARDING SPEAKS AT JACKSON, O.

Contrasts Republican "Performances" With Democratic "Phrase-Making"

Lauds Protective Tariff Policy as Example of Republican Accomplishment

JACKSON, Ohio, Oct. 20.—Democratic "phrase-making" and republican "performance" were contrasted by Senator Harding in a speech here today lauding the protective tariff policy as an example of republican accomplishment. "The truth is," he said, "that with all the progressive tongues and all the literary idealism of our opponents, it is still the republican party, not only as to tariff protection, but as to every other kind of protection, which stands as the safeguard of America. It is a simple matter to make phrases. It is much more difficult to perform, but it is on their respective records as phrase-makers and as performers that the democratic forces of this campaign and the republican party oppose each other."

Speaking at a barbecue, the senator gave particular attention to the iron and steel industry as it has developed in this section of Ohio. This industry, throughout the country, he said, had given a illustration of "the success which attends the combination of the hands and brains of workers whose interests are so bound together in a common cause that upon the part of all there will be profound realization of the need for mutual consideration."

"As an illustration of the common interest which binds those engaged in that industry in a public policy," he continued, "I wish to cite the truth that the growth and opportunity for investment of capital and the labor of men in the iron and steel industry has rested upon a political policy. You know that it is a fact that the repu-

Mine Explosion Kills 442 in China

PEKING, Oct. 19.—(By Associated Press)—An explosion and fire in the Tong-Shan coal mine in Chi Li province, killed 422 Chinese laborers on Thursday last, but news of the accident reached here only today, there were 119 survivors. The explosion occurred in next to the lowest level, smoke causing most of the deaths. There was fire damp in the mine and extra precautions had been taken to safeguard the miners against it. It is believed the explosion was caused by laborers tampering with the safety lamps.

With all the natural resources and the good fortune of geographical position, the growth and perhaps the prosperous existence of the 600 or more companies which are making iron and steel in the United States is based upon the impulse given men to labor.

"This impulse to labor, I trust, will always be made up in part of the love of men to expend their energies in creative production; but of necessity men labor for a living. I would like to see the standards of living among foreign nations raised up to our standards of living, but I do not intend to see our prosperity and our standards of living to meet the competition of foreign countries in our markets."

"Sympathetic as I may be with our brothers in foreign nations, we stand for a proper policy of American protection, flexible, subject to readjustments, fair to our consumers, and yet protecting American investments and the interests and standards of living of those American laborers who do their part by giving us 100 per cent efficiency in their productive effort."

NEWS OF THE DAY IN POLICE COURT

Kate Janocka of Duxbury, arraigned in police court this morning before Judge Knight, charged with larceny of a spool of yarn valued at $2.50 from the Massachusetts cotton mills, was found guilty and ordered to pay a fine of $5. The defendant is an employee of the spinning room of the mills and was detected by the gatekeeper in taking the spool. Major Noyes, special officer for various corporations in the city, was the prosecuting officer and again urged the court to inflict strict penalties to stop the larceny which are being committed every day in the various mills and shops in the city. This is the second case within one week in which employees of the Massachusetts mills were charged with larceny.

Daniel Uncertain

Daniel Buzzell pleaded not guilty to neglect of his wife, but was put over until tomorrow for trial.

"Are you married to this woman?" the defendant was asked. "I don't know. I have no proof that I did marry her," he replied.

"Can't you remember?" queried Deputy Downey.

"All I know is that I just wanted her for a housekeeper and that if I did marry her 11 years ago, I did it when I was drunk," affirmed the defendant.

"Continued until tomorrow," said the court. "Go to city hall and see if you are married."

Automobile Cases

In the number of automobile cases called, Bernard Reddy was found guilty of driving a truck without a license and without providing it with proper lights. His case was placed on file on the grounds that the violation was committed through a misunderstanding.

Alexander Perreault, charged with operating an automobile so as to endanger the lives and safety of the public and without a license, was continued.

Daniel Apostolous, proprietor of a store in Middlesex street, was charged with a violation of the city ordinance by parking his automobile in front of his store without having lights on it.

He was found guilty and fined $10.

Robert B. Cohen was fined $5 for operating an automobile on Westford street on the afternoon of Oct. 12, so as to endanger the lives and safety of the public. The arresting officer testified that defendant drove his auto on the left side of the street at the rate of 30 miles an hour, passed several others and an electric car which were stopped.

Philip Bellefleur was fined $10 for operating an automobile at night on Broadway without headlights.

Carried Revolver

Victor Beauchene was found guilty of carrying a revolver without a permit and ordered to pay $100 fine. Defendant appealed. Counsel for defense asked that the case be placed on file on the grounds that the gun was not loaded at the time, that the defendant did not attempt to conceal it, that he bought it a short time before being caught and that he has no former record.

Liquor Case

A charge of illegal sale of intoxicating liquor against Manuel Battencourt, proprietor of a store in Cochran street, brought down the usual fine of $100.

NEW WAY TO REMOVE

HAIRS CREATES SENSATION

(Actually Takes Out the Roots)

What beauty specialists regard as one of the most important discoveries in recent years is the perfected method of removing superfluous hair. Its great advantage, of course, lies in the fact that it actually removes the hair root, thus the regrowing, instantly, harmlessly. Sufferers from the affliction named need no longer despair. The actual hair-roots come out before your very eyes, leaving the skin as smooth and hairless as a baby.

Because it offers such complete relief, a stick of plucking is the most inexpensive thing a woman can buy for the removal of hairy eyebrows. For the same reason druggists are having a normal demand for it. You can have it with entire safety. It is so harmless one can even eat it without any ill effects.

PREPARE YOURSELF AGAINST DANGERS OF WINTER

Local druggists are now offering Cherry-Mul to those who are afflicted with rough, cold and run down condition. Cherry-Mul is a pure food product, contains no alcohol or narcotics, is a natural body builder and provides strength and weight. Every bottle is sold with a guarantee of absolute satisfaction or money refunded. Recommended by Dr. J. Campbell, Dr. Howard L. W. Jones, Dr. Parkins, Dr. Shaw, Dr. Lowell Pharmacy, Dr. A. LOWELL HUNTERS

GET BIG COON

After an exciting chase from Carlisle to Grover, a group of Lowell hunters, aided and abetted by an expert hunting dog, succeeded in tracking and capturing yesterday morning, an exceptionally large raccoon, and today Simon B. Harris, one of the members of the party, is proudly displaying a beautiful coon skin which is to be sent to Brooklyn, N. Y., to be tanned, and will later be worn as a necktie by Mr. Harris.

Another member of the hunting party, County Commissioner Elton B. Barlow, is today celebrating his birthday and it is presumed that coon steak will form a part of the menu at his home this evening.

Others in the party were Bernard E. McArthur, John C. McElroy and Selectman Anthony of Carlisle. The hunt was most interesting and conducted strictly in accordance with the rules and regulations as provided by the statutes of the commonwealth. The raccoon is one of the pestiferous specimens of its kind that has been seen here in some time.

A small party connected with the hunt, the hunters report, was the fact that one of the forward jaws of the animal was found to have been caught in a trap at one time, but the injury had been so well healed over so to appear that a surgical operation had been performed.

Although the members of the party modestly admit that they are pretty good hunters, they also wish to give a fair share of credit to Mr. McArthur's dog who tracked the animal persistently and finally trapped it in a tree, where it was shot.

WHITE ANSWERS HAYS

Claim of 395 Votes for Harding Just 10 Under Claims of Hughes' Manager

CHICAGO, Oct. 20.—Before leaving for New York for the final drive of the campaign, George White, chairman of the democratic national committee, today issued a statement discussing a recent claim of Republican National Chairman Hays that Senator Harding would have 395 electoral votes.

"This is just ten electoral votes under the claims of republican managers for Charles E. Hughes in 1916," said Mr. White. "I congratulate Mr. Hays on his conservatism. As a reward he will not have as far to fall into the depths of false prophecy as his predecessors in 1916."

"In that year the republican managers claimed 405 votes for Mr. Hughes. He actually received 251 and President Wilson was re-elected. Using the same simple arithmetic, Senator Harding will have no more than 214 electoral votes this year, which about coincides with the real estimate at republican headquarters."

ed the table and said, "You have got the trunk keys and the bank books." Witness said she began to cry and that her sister Lilla made a remark which led Mrs. Morrison to shake her finger in Lilla's face and exclaim, "You keep out of it, you have nothing to do with this matter."

Witness said she then told Mrs. Morrison to leave the house and never enter it again.

The day her aunt's body was brought to her home, witness asserted, John McShea called at her house and asked if his aunt left any money to pay the expenses of her last sickness and burial. She told him to settle the bill. She said she told Mr. McShea that her aunt had told her to pay him $1 for some wood he had bought for her, and that McShea inquired, "Who told you that?"

Going to the Farm

Witness asserted that Mrs. Morrison had said: "If Aunt Kate lives, long she will have to go to the farm, my father-in-law went there, and it is a good place."

Witness said she replied: "No matter how long Aunt Kate lives she shall never go to the farm. I shall send her to a hospital in Dracut where she will have good care."

The witness denied that she had attempted to influence her aunt to transfer her bank books, or that she had ever seen any evidence that her aunt was of unsound mind. She said she had heard her aunt say that she had a sister Anna, who had been insane and confined in the Tewksbury hospital.

Gardner W. Pearson testified regarding the signing of the bank-book transfers by Miss McShea. He said she had asserted she wanted the Cooke girls to have her money; that they were "good girls and would take care of her." He said he saw no evidence of mental unsoundness on the part of Miss McShea. He said that Florence Cooke urged her aunt to take the pen and sign the transfers.

Theresa McDermott told of caring for Miss McShea while she was in St. John's hospital. She said she saw deceased every half-hour during the day time. She stated that she had never seen her unconscious, act peculiarly or show any evidence of mental unsoundness.

Told to Send Lawyer

Margaret McKenna of Fitchburg testified that she had been a patient occupying the next bed to Miss McShea in St. John's hospital. She said she became acquainted with deceased, and talked with her some every day. She became acquainted with John McShea the day after his aunt entered the hospital. She said Miss McShea said to John: "What did you come for, to see what you could get?"

John said, witness testified, "Now don't start talking that way or I won't stay."

"When John took his hat to go," witness stated, "Miss McShea said, 'You go or stay just as you please, but you send a lawyer here and I'll fix it so you'll get nothing.'"

When Susie Cooke came to the hospital, witness asserted, her aunt kissed her and said, "Poor Susie, with your lame hip, it was good for you to come up here and see me."

Witness said she had heard Miss McShea say she "loved Florence" and that "Florence had always been good to her," and that she had heard deceased tell Susie Cooke to get the keys to her trunk and get her bank books.

Witness stated that Miss McShea had never shown any affection, while in the hospital, for Alice Morrison. She stated that Mrs. Morrison had tried to obtain information from her aunt regarding the disposition made of her bank books, and when her aunt did not give satisfactory answers Mrs. Morrison said to witness, "She won't tell; isn't she foxy?"

Mary E. Field of Salem said that she was acquainted with Catherine McShea and that she had asked witness to be good to the Cooke girls and had said, "My girls, especially my 'baby,' shall have all that I have." She said she had seen evidence that deceased was mentally unsound.

Zilpha Jardine testified that she had known the Cooke girls for 15 years. She said she had heard Miss McShea say that her niece had been good to her and that they should never want for anything so long as she had any money. She said that she had seen no sign that Miss McShea was mentally unsound.

Cox Continues Campaign

Hon upon the Irish question, the governor added:

"During the last two weeks, republican speakers have been urged not to mention his name."

Views on Lodge Reservations

Charges that Senator Harding had taken numerous positions upon the league were reiterated by Governor Cox.

"Would you accept the Lodge reservations?" was another question.

"They were never seriously suggested," the candidate replied. "They had been, Senator Lodge would have declared for them in the republican platform."

"The governor added that he was 'most interested' in the Hitchcock reservations."

Before the league became a political question, Governor Cox replied.

Reiterating that Senator Lodge later formed the "base and most infamous conspiracy" against the league, Governor Cox declared that the republican leader was the most despised man in America, and told hisses from the audience followed the mention of the senator's name.

"I've been getting that for 10 weeks," the governor commented.

Republicans favoring the league and supporting Senator Harding are "conducting a joint debate with themselves," Governor Cox said, citing statements by former President Taft that league opponents were "bring at President Wilson."

A tirade through the business section preceded the governor's address from a stand in front of the federal building. It was the candidate's only Rhode Island speech.

Senator Gerry, Patrick H. Quinn, democratic national committeeman for Rhode Island, and other party leaders were on the platform.

Detailed Survey of Lowell Streets

An exceptionally interesting and detailed survey of the condition of Lowell's streets has been prepared under the direction of President William N. Goodell of the chamber of commerce for the use of the chamber's committee on streets and shows just where improvements are most needed.

A large map of the city is now hanging on the wall of the chamber's meeting room with every street charted as to its condition by various marks. The observer is able to tell instantly in just what condition any street in the city is—or rather was a few weeks ago when the survey was made. In any program of street improvement that may be undertaken by the municipal authorities, this map should prove most valuable.

The map and a detailed survey of the city's streets were prepared not by haphazard guess-work but only after every street in the city had been gone over in an automobile by either President Goodell or his representative. The downtown streets were found to be in generally good condition, but many of the thoroughfares leading from the city had to be put in the "fair" or "poor" class. First street is one of the streets which has been designated "very poor," the lowest grading used in the survey. Part of Bedford street is also reported on unfavorably.

According to their condition, the city's streets were divided into five classes: very good, good, fair, poor and very poor. In the very good class are 55,461 feet or 11.1 miles of streets, or 72.2 per cent of the total street mileage of the city.

In the good class are 877 miles or 5.7 per cent. In the fair class are 35,211 miles or 21.5 per cent. There are 50,653 miles of poor streets in the city or just an even third of the total street mileage. In the very poor class are 41,655 miles or 29.2 per cent. This survey shows a total of 133.37 miles of streets in Lowell.

The surveyors also succeeded in classifying the streets according to their construction. This tabulation is as follows: Granite block, 29.99 miles or 13.7 per cent; tar macadam, 42.12 miles or 27.7 per cent; plain macadam, 29,633 miles or 19.3 per cent; gravel or cinders, 58,339 miles or 34.1 per cent; asphalt, 1,145 miles or 0.6 per cent; wood, 0.16 miles or 0.2 per cent; and brick, 0.82 miles or 0.9 per cent.

The survey was considered by the streets committee at a recent meeting and a sub-committee consisting of James C. Reilly, chairman; Harvey W. Tarbell and Charles L. Knapp, was appointed to consider the matter further and to frame resolutions or recommendations to be presented to the municipal authorities.

SPLENDID CONCERT AT THE STRAND

Their enthusiasm a bit dimmed by two disappointments following announcements of the appearance of Mme. Schumann-Helink, the music-lovers who assembled at the Strand last evening did so with the feeling that they were accepting a substitute and approached their evening's entertainment in an attitude of more or less resignation. However, before the evening's concert had made much progress their slothful changed to warmth for the splendid artists before them and when the closing numbers came, there was as much genuine enthusiasm prevalent as though the more famous singer had herself been present.

The evening's artists were Mme. Julia Claussen, mezzo soprano; Mr. Arthur Middleton, baritone, and Miss Irma Seydel, violinist. Mme. Claussen and Mr. Middleton are at the height of their powers while Miss Seydel, more youthful than the others, is fast approaching the height of her particular art. Their efforts enhanced by exceptionally capable accompanists, the trio soon made one forget the disappointment felt earlier in the evening.

The evening's program as published in advance was faithfully followed and supplemented with generous reserves. A detailed review here would be tedious because of its length, but several numbers stood out with exceptional appeal. Madame Claussen sang with all the vigor of the name artist that she is and in "The Cry of Rachel" displayed dramatic force worthy of a tragedian. Her "Tears" and "Cradle Song" showed her in less strenuous vein, but with no less fervor. "Bonjour Suzon," "Carneval" and "My Love is a Muletier" were examples of her lighter strains. Freddie Frog Cleared His Throat, Bowed to Nancy, Then to the Visitors, and Lastly to the School.

Freddie had just as grand manners as his dad. Nick wasn't there that day, as he was out hunting up trunks for the Meadow Grove school.

This was what Freddie read:

Have you ever been to Pollywog Town? It's a place of most famous renown. Where the pinchy crabs creep, and the mud turtles sleep. And the fish slowly swim up and down.

There lives Miss Clementina May Eel.

Who sets Pollywog Town all agog. With his shirts and fine hats, and his many cravats. Which he buys at the store by the log.

Mr. Turtle's another gay bird Who lives in this land, I have heard. He stays under his back and just peeps out the crack in a manner completely absurd.

Freddie Frog closed his book here, made another bow, and took his seat.

"GRANDEST ON EARTH" SAYS LOWELL WOMAN

"I Will Always Bless the Day I Got Tanlac," She Says—Feels Like a New Woman Now

"I will always bless the day I got Tanlac, for while I am just now on my second bottle, I already feel like a different woman," said Mrs. Laura Corburn, of 22 Leverett St., Lowell, Mass., the other day.

"During the last five years I had a world of trouble from indigestion. I had hardly any appetite, and most everything I ate soured on my stomach and formed gas, which caused palpitation of the heart, shortness of breath and such sharp pains in the pit of my stomach I could hardly stand it. I always had to be very careful about what I ate, for anything the least bit heavy would cause me to suffer perfect agony."

"I was nervous and restless and it was always hard for me to sleep at night. My liver was sluggish. I suffered a great deal from constipation, and had such awful headaches it seemed like my head would burst. I was subject to spells of dizziness, when everything looked black before me, especially if I stooped over. All my strength and energy seemed gone from me, and I just had a tired, drabby feeling all the time."

"Well, I read a number of statements about Tanlac that fitted my case so well I decided to give it a trial for myself, and I began to improve with the first few doses, and now I just feel like I had been made new. My appetite didn't have any appetite, and just the most anything I want and haven't a sign of indigestion since I began taking Tanlac."

"I am no longer constipated, those headaches and spells of dizziness have left me, and I sleep like a child all night long. All those tired feelings are things of the past, and I feel good all the time. I just can't fully express how grateful I do feel to Tanlac. It is certainly the greatest medicine on earth, and I am constantly telling my friends about it."

"Tanalac is sold in Lowell by Greens drug store, Merrimack square, under the personal direction of a special Tanlac representative and by the leading druggist in every town.—Adv.

Billerica News

The school committee and the finance committee of the town of Billerica held a conference recently relative to the transportation of school children from their homes to their respective schools. The conference was called as a result of the recent increase in fares put into effect on the system of the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway Co., and both bodies were of the opinion that it would be cheaper to inaugurate a motor barge system than to continue transporting the children by trolley. In the course of the conference it was brought out that the cost of transporting the children under the new rate would be $1000 a year, while a barge system, which would cover the entire town would cost about $500 less a year. The matter was taken under advisement and it is believed that within a short time the school committee will establish a barge system.
